The bids are being studied by an architect and the committee. Following completion of studies, the church administrative board and the congregation will be called to hear the recommendations of the committee.

The administrative board was scheduled to meet tonight but the meeting was indefinitely postponed.

Fire destroyed the church's sanctuary in March of 1968.

Hanoi Told U.S. Will Not Bow to Minority Acts

PARIS (AP) — The United States told Hanoi and the Viet Cong today the U.S. position in Paris will not crumble "because of the words or actions of a vocal minority of the American public."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge also declared: "You must not rely on our making concession after concession until you get everything you want."

Speaking at the 41st plenary session of the Vietnam peace talks, Lodge said: "We have recognized that your side was capable of blocking all attempts to bring an end to the war through negotiations. President Nixon, therefore, put into effect another plan. This is a plan which will bring the war to an end regardless of what happens on the negotiating front."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates denounced the Nixon speech as "continuation and intensification of the U.S. war of aggression."

Lodge said Nixon made it clear that the United States will search for a just peace "through a negotiated settlement if possible, or through continued implementation of our plan for Vietnamization if necessary."

"I was looking for a semi-rural community in which to settle and rear my family and I am very happy to be coming to East Prairie to work with and for the betterment of the community."

Hanoi Reply to Nixon Repeats Old Demands

HONG KONG (AP) - North Vietnam today "officially answered" President Nixon's Vietnam policy speed with renewed demands that he unconditionally withdraw all U. S. troops from Vietnam and abandon all support of the South Vietnamese government.

Unless and until those two conditions are met, there can be no end to the Vietnam war, the Hanoi government said in what Radio Hanoi described as "the official government statement answering Nixon's Nov. 3 speech."

Broadcast in Vietnamese, the statement called on the governments and peoples of Communist nations to increase aid and support to the Viet Cong "in defeating the United States and overthrowing the Saigon traitors."

Hanoi called also on the American people to "condemn and demand an immediate end of Nixon's vicious plan to prolong the war through the use of Vietnamese to kill Vietnamese for the benefit of U. S. imperialistic aggression."

Tax Rate Increases In New Madrid

NEW MADRID — Even though the total county income with the exception of rates remain the same as for 1968, some 19,126 tax statements mailed to property owners by Wm. H. Deane, Jr., county collector are expected to siphon off two and a half million dollars from such property owners for taxes due the state, county and other county taxing agencies.

According to Jesse H. Wilkins, county clerk, the tax charge was up by 7 per cent from the prior year, or by $164,525.44. Wilkins says the largest tax bill in the county still goes to Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., whose tax amounts to $222,806.04.

The valuations were up by 3.4 per cent even though 4,400 acres of real estate values were removed from the tax rolls for the St. Jude industrial park owned by the City of New Madrid. The values for the tax books include $39,942,583 for real estate, $6,699,753 for the personal tax book, $1,091,631 for merchants and manufacturers, and $12,402,462 for railroads and utilities, for a total current valuation of $60,136,429, as compared to $58,143,313 for the prior year. This reflects an increase of $1,993,116.

The tax rates remain the same with the exception of county revenue and Johnson grass control. County revenue rates were increased from 48 cents to 50 cents, and the Johnson grass control carrying a 2 cent rate for the prior year was eliminated since they had sufficient funds on which to operate. Other rates include state 3 cents; library 10 cents; health center 10 cents, roads 25 cents; and the school rates vary slightly.

Of the total $2,495,076.51 in taxes levied by the county, state nd other county taxing agencies, the following agencies will receive the following amounts, with the percentage of total taxes in brackets;

State, $17,995.73 (½ percent); county revenue, $300,670.86 (12 percent); library, $56,923.34 (2¼ percent); health center, $60,124.85 (2¼ percent); roads, $150,292.24 (6 percent); various cities; (on railroad and utility book only) $33,775.87 (1½ percent; and schools $1,864,393.62. (75 percent).

An additional $10,900.00 was levied for the county drainage districts, the identical amounts as for 1968, excepting an item for drainage district 29, which was removed to a circuit court district.

Draft Reform Log Jam May Be Near End

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate log jam holding up President Nixon's draft-by-lottery bill appears to have been broken in a compromise that may bring both immediate and future reform of the Selective Service System.

The lottery measure after passing the House last week had faced long Senate delay because of demands for more comprehensive draft reform than the single, one-line change in present law proposed by the President.

Assistant Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy, an advocate of widespread Selective Service overhaul, told the Senate late Wednesday he will introduce an amendment allowing the lottery provision to be voted on quickly.

Inquest Held up Pending Autopsy

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Edgartown District Court Judge James A. Boyle refused today to set a date for the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne until a decision is made in Pennsylvania on exhuming Miss Kopechne's body for an autopsy.

The judge's decision was announced by Court Clerk Thomas A. Teller after a closed-door meeting between Boyle and 12 attorneys involved in the case.

The meeting lasted an hour and 50 minutes, and when it was over neither Boyle nor any of the attorneys would talk with newsmen.

Teller's brief statement did not elaborate.

Miss Kopechne was found dead July 19 in a car owned by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy that had plunged off a bridge on nearby Chappaquiddick Island. A medical examiner ruled her death a drowning, but the body was buried in Pennsylvania wihout an autopsy.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, in whose jurisdiction the accident occurred, went to court in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in an attempt to secure an autopsy.

Judge Bernard Brominski held back judgment on the autopsy request Oct. 21 after a two-day hearing.

Brominski was not available immediately for comment on Boyle's decision. He has given no indication yet on when he will rule on the autopsy request, but has said that the parties involved would be given 24 hours' advance notice.

Boyle had been expected to set a date for the inquest after today's session.

There was no announcement on precisely what was discussed at the session, but presumably it involved a recent ruling on the case by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The state's high court has ordered that the inquest be closed to the public and press and that witnesses be permitted to have attorneys accompany them. The court refused them the privilege of cross-examination, however.

The inquest is to determine the cause of Miss Kopechne's death. A medical examiner ruled she died of drowning, but no autopsy was performed.

Apollo 12 Countdown Opens Friday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency today decided to start the Apollo 12 countdown at noon Friday, 31 hours early, to avoid some weekend overtime pay.

The launch time for man's second moon landing flight remains the same—11:22 a.m. EST Nov. 14.

The original plan was to start the clock at the 98-hour mark at 7 p.m. Saturday. Now it will begin Friday and the first 14 hours will be ticked off, with a 31-hour hold slated to last at 2 a.m. Saturday.

The launch crew will resume the count at 9 a.m. Sunday at the 34-hour point. Several more built-in holds totaling 38 hours 22 minutes are planned to handle any difficulties that might arise and to provide the crew with terest.

A NASA spokesman said the shift in the countdown schedule would save considerable overtime pay, especially during precount preparations Saturday. There was no estimate of the saving.

Goldwater Says Firm Line May Hike Agnew Presidential Stock

HONOLULU (AP) — If Vice President Spiro T. Agnew keeps up his criticism of antiwar demonstrators "he may find himself being boomed for president before it's even his turn," Sen. Barry Goldwater said today.

In his prepared keynote address to the Western States Republican Conference, the unsuccessful 1964 GOP presidential candidate said Agnew's strong attacks on the peace movement leaders express "the sentiment of the vast, overwhelming majority of the American people."

Goldwater said the vice president was "accurate and penetrating" in calling the antiwar demonstration leaders "impudent snobs" and should be praised, not vilified.

"The vice president's crime, it seems, was to describe an effete corps of impudent snobs as 'an effete corps of impudent snobs,'" Goldwater said.

"When a liberal makes any kind of outlandish charge against his nation or his President, it is taken as a proper exercise in the right of free speech and a legitimate expression of political dissent," he said.

"However, if a conservative or a supporter of the Nixon administration vigorously attacks an activity which is undermining an American military effort, he automatically becomes 'irresponsible' and 'intemperate' in the view of the leftist media," he added.

Goldwater spoke of an Agnew for President boom in the last paragraph of a speech in which he called for Republicans to unite behind President Nixon and the Republican administration's Vietnam policy.

He also had his own characterization of participants in antiwar demonstrations:

"Many of them are concerned, warm-hearted but, I believe, misguided Americans who sincerely want an end to the war and bloodshed in Southeast Asia.

"A few, I suspect, are very sick people. Their ailment can be described as 'delerium treason.'"

He said critics of President Nixon's policy may be pressing their luck.

"I believe they may well discover in weeks to come that there is one thing the American people resent much more than the Vietnam war and that is the disruption of schools and public demonstrations which inconvenience many citizens and play into the hands of those persons whose business it is to kill American fighting men."

Pentagon Maps Plan to Deal With Disorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it has started "precautionary planning" to deal with possible disorders when antiwar groups stage a "march against death" through the capital next week.

It reported a total of 28,000 soldiers and Marines are available in the general Washington area, if needed. About 10,000 of these troops are in organized units and many have riot control training.

Unlike the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium, government leaders believe more militants will be involved this time and may attempt confrontations with authorities.

However, demonstration leaders have said repeatedly the protests will be peaceful. Earlier this week protest organizers disavowed any connection with a proposed demonstration by the Youth International party—Yippies—one of the more radical groups.

The government fears of violence center on a proposed Nov. 15 mass march along Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol past the White House to a rally near the Washington Monument.

Nixon Speech Hikes Flag Sales

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sales of American flags and emblems rose sharply after President Nixon's address on his Vietnam war policy, a flag dealer and a newspaper that sells flags as a public service reported Wednesday.

Emil Tamm, a partner in Ad Sell, which has been dealing in flags, emblems and decals for years, said sales began climbing after the Vietnam moratorium activities last month and surged upward after the Nixon speech.

"People want them and they want them fast," Tamm said.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat, which distributes flags as a public service, said 400 were sold Wednesday and prior to that sales had increased to about 200 a dav.

'Flatfoot' Beats to Return

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The cop on the beat, the reviled and revered "flatfoot" of yesteryear, will again become a familiar sight in two of the city's heavily populated high-crime areas.

Col. James L. Sanders, chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners, announced Wednesday that foot patrols will be started in the Pruitt - Igoe public housing project area and the Page Boulevard Police District.

Under the pilot program, officers will work in pairs, maintaining communication with patrol cars in the area and the department dispatcher by radio.

Sanders said the walking beats would be assigned only during night hours initially.

Blackwell Accused of Fund Use

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) - State Representative Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, today charged that Senator Earl Blackwell is using state facilities, state funds and state employes to carry on his campaign for a referendum vote on the Missouri income tax increase.

Volkmer, in a statement, said Blackwell is using his senate office in the Capital as headquarters for the drive; used 21 employes and a private secretary on the state payroll for work on the correspondence and mailings of the campaign, and mailed "thousands of pieces of mail in the campaign" under a postage meter charged to the Missouri Senate.

Volkmer concluded that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money is being used to conduct the referendum campaign.

Allied Camps Stormed

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops stormed a South Vietnamese navy task force headquarters in the Mekong Delta today and blasted their way into two American infantry camps in the central highlands, killing 35 allied troops and wounding 125.

Allied headquarters said 185 North Vietnamese were killed in the three attacks, which dealt allied forces one of their heaviest day's losses this year.

The South Vietnamese suffered the most, losing 25 per cent of the 350 marines and navy men at the amphibious task force headquarters in the Mekong Delta 138 miles southwest of Saigon. A spokesman said 27 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 98 wounded in the night-long attack by 300 North Vietnamese soldiers.

The South Vietnamese defenders said they killed 75 of the enemy, and that 56 enemy bodies were found along the camp's barbed wire perimeter.

Nine Americans were killed and 27 wounded in the two attacks on troops of the 4th Infantry Division in the highlands near the provincial capitals of Pleiku and Kontum. The U.S. Command said the American troops killed 30 North Vietnamese, many of them sappers hurling dynamite bombs into bunkers.

It was the third straight day of heavy fighting after a nineweek lull in the Vietnam war. The increase in enemy assults are certain to send American casualties soaring upward, a factor which President Nixon said in his Vietnam war speech Monday could slow his timetable for withdrawal of U.S. troops.

This week's totals will be announced next Thursday.

The allied commands reported today that combat casualties slacked off on all sides [illegible] South Vietnamese government troops and 1,570 enemy killed in action.

The week before the totals of battlefield dead reported were 102 Americans, 297 South Vietnamese and 2,283 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The weekly casualty report raised the number of Americans reported killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 39,292 and the reported enemy total in that period to 183,981.

The U.S. Command said 734 Americans were wounded last week, increasing the total since Jan. 1, 1961, to 297,569.

The drop in casualty figures last week reflected the nineweek lull in the war, although it ended Saturday with a flareup in the central highlands. Fighting in this and other areas north of Saigon continued through Tuesday and a U.S. military source said the number of Americans killed in action this week—which will be announced next Thursday—may jump back above 100 for the second time in seven weeks.

A U.S. spokesman announced today that three American GIs released by the Viet Cong after months of captivity in jungle camps will fly to the United States Saturday to rejoin their families.

An Army spokesman said initial tests to determine if the three had caught malaria proved negative, and the way was cleared for their return home.

The freed POWs—Spec. 4 Willie A. Watkins of Hunter, S.C., Spec. 4 James B. Strickland of Dunn, N.C., and Pfc. Coy R. Tinsley of Cleveland, Tenn.—all said they had received "good treatment" from the Viet Cong, Army sources reported.

All three are 23 years old.

Car, School Bus Collide

A collision at a street intersection in Vanduser Wednesday at 8:35 a.m., sent Mary Thompson, 38, Vanduser, to Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for face cuts. Several teeth were knocked out, the state patrol reported.

She was driving a 1964 Mustang, when a 1969 Ford school bus, driven by Norma Lorene Deal, 27, Sikeston, came into the intersection, and was struck in the side by the Mustang.

None of 10 children in the bus were injured.

Car Damaged

On East Malone Avenue yesterday at 8:41 p.m., a 1951 Ford pick-up truck driven by Floyd F. Ferrell Jr., 16, 1805 Kentucky St., collided with a 1960 Plymouth whose driver was unidentified.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
ONE SOLITARY LIFE

He was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in still another village, where he worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty. Then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family or owned a house. He didn't go to college. He never visited a big city.

He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He did none of the things one usually associates with greatness. He had no credentials but himself. He was only thirty-three when the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away.

He was turned over to his enemies and went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled for his clothing, the only property he had on earth. When he was dead, he was laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race and the leader of mankind's progress. All the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever sailed, all the parliaments that ever sat, all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have not affected the life of man on this earth as much as that

One Solitary Life.

USE OF X FOR CHRISTMAS

Practically every year from this time on, the question comes up again -- who put the "X" in Christmas, and decries such an Unchristian approach to an otherwise solemn occasion. A reader again wants to know how come this slip from the full designation Christmas.

Actually, it's been there all the time, according to World Book Encyclopedia which says, "X, used alone or in combination with other letters, often stands for the word Christ"; and an Episcopalian priest, The Rev. Eric G. Gration, explains: "This usage is quite ancient -- as ancient certainly as the term 'Christmas' itself. It derives from the early (1st Century) use of the first letter of the name 'Christ' in Greek -- the Greek letter "Chi', written as 'X' . . . The use of X for Christ ties in also with the equally ancient XP (Chi Ro, the equivalent in Greek of our 'Chr') as a symbol for Christ and also with the symbols 'IXS' -- Iota Chi Sigma -- the first letters of Iesous Christos Soter in Greek; Jesus Christ Savior in English."

One might as justifiably fret over who consolidated the phrase "Holy day" (from the Anglo - Saxon Halig daeg) into "holiday". Or, for that matter, who reduced the early English phrase "Christes Masse" (Christ's Mass) to Christmas.

All in all, it isn't so much how you spell it as how you keep it that determines how blessed will be the joyous season just ahead. - Jackson (Miss.) Clarion - Ledger and Daily News

PROCEED, MR. AGNEW

Vice President Spiro Agnew has drawn down on his head of fury of the left-wing in the Congress and the press for his denunciation of the leaders of the October 15th "Moratorium".

The shrill criticism seems to center primarily on the charge that Vice President Agnew attacked the Moratorium leaders as "an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals." In the interest of fairness, we believe that this quote should be evaluated in the context of the speech given by Mr. Agnew in New Orleans.

The Vice President said: "Education is being redefined at the demand of the uneducated to suit the ideas of the uneducated. The student now goes to college to proclaim rather than to learn. The lessons of the past are ignored and obliterated in a contemporary antagonism known as the generation gap. A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals.

"It is in this setting of dangerous oversimplification that the war in Vietnam achieves its greatest distortion.

"The recent Vietnam Moratorium is a reflection of the confusion that exists in America today. Thousands of well motivated young people, conditioned since childhood to respond to great emotional appeals, saw fit to demonstrate for peace. Most did not stop to consider that the leaders of the Moratorium had billed it as amassive public outpouring of sentiment against the foreign policy of the President of the United States. Most did not care to be reminded that the leaders of the Moratorium refused to disassociate themselves from the objective enunciated by the enemy in Hanoi."

Upon reading the full text of Mr. Agnew's speech, it is obvious that a deliberate attempt to distort the true meaning of his words has been made by individuals whose reasoning, as well as their identity, is obscure. But the most cogent evidence of the legitimacy of Mr. Agnew's remarks was provided by the avowed enemies of the United States. In an open letter to the Moratorium agitators, North Vietnamese Communist Premier Pham Van Dong saluted them as his "Dear American Friends".

Just a few weeks ago we were wondering "Where is Agnew?" Now we know and we're glad to have found him.

HOW SOME UNIONS ARE "HELPING" SOLVE THE HOUSING SHORTAGE FOR THE POOR

Corporations, churches, civic groups are striving to replace slum hovels with decent modern housing but it is taking too long and costs too much. Two words explain much of the reason: union rules.

Work takes too long because there aren't enough skilled workers, and that's because unions won't allow enough apprentices to build up the ranks of the skilled.

Prefabricated floors, walls, windows, doors, plumbing, wiring would speed work, cut costs, often improve quality. But many unions won't allow them - work has to be done slowly, expensively, on each job. Or the pre-fab part has to be taken apart and put together again!

Honest unions encourage and foster skills, but rules like these by some misguided unions are dangerously delaying work that is desperately needed.

And meanwhile slums (and people) rot.

Don't equal opportunity laws apply to all unions, too?

NEW YORK (AP) — Experience is said to be the best teacher. But it can also be a costly and even fatal teacher. The lessons from some experiences are too expensive for us to afford.

The better part of wisdom sometimes is to avoid the experience and therefore the need of having to learn the bitter lesson. This requires the development of a sturdy ability to say no at the right time.

For example, here are a few invitations which, if accepted, generally lead only to disaster or regret:

"If the liquor is all gone, why don't we just all drive over to my place for an early breakfast?"

"This looks like it may be a short cut down the mountain. Why don't we follow it and save time?"

"When we get to the supermarket, dear, you hold a place for me in the checkout line while I pick up the items we need. I'm sure the others won't mind."

"I've never been up in a small airplane like this before. May I steer it for a while just to see what it's like?"

"Don't you think it would give it a little more flavor if you chopped up another clove or two of garlic and tossed them in?"

"If you liked those slides we took in Venice last year, how about dropping by tomorrow night and we'll show you the ones we took the year before on our visit through Arizona's deserts? We've got some closeups of a scorpion that are real corkers."

"Since you say you'd rather sit in the front of the canoe, why don't we change places right now before these rapids get any worse?"

"If you think a housewife has it so easy, why don't you stay home for a day and do my work, and I'll go to the office and do yours?"

"Just what is all this fuss about a generation gap, son? You're not one of those smart aleck kids who blame their parents for everything that's wrong with the world, are you?"

"Yes, believe it or not, at my age I've started taking dancing lessons. Shall I show you a few new steps?"

"Would you like to hear the details of my new diet?"

"Well, if you don't like the income tax return I filed, why don't you try to make a federal case out of it?"

"Is there anything else I can do to make your life happier, boss?"

SPEED the parting guest. No one can be so welcome a guest that he will not annoy his host after three days. (Platus) . . .After three days men grow weary of a wench, a guest, and rainy weather. MANY tricks are used to prevent callers at business offices from outstaying their welcome. A high Government executive, although occupying a large room, has only one chair in his office. When a visitor enters, he rises and remains on his feet as long as the visitor stays.

Another method is to furnish uncomfortable chairs for visitors. One man not only asks his visitor to sit in an uncomfortable chair but the visitor also discovers that chair is nailed to the floor at a distance of five feet from the host.

When John Wanamaker was Postmaster General his handshake became famous in Washington. Others tried to imitate it but regretted the attempt. 'The way he received every one,' said an official of the time, 'was most satisfactory, but the thing that delighted me was the beautiful manner in which he got rid of a visitor. His farewell handshake was courtesy and geniality itself, at the same time it was a gentle push toward the door. It was done in such a manner that nobody could possibly take exception to it.'

See by the papers the Nixon aministration is asking for suggestions on how to keep em down on the farm and out of the cities where it costs taxpayers 300 to 500% more to keep em. It's all very simple, put some old fashioned farmer in charge who knows how they done it before autos chain Stores and Bonds took over little farmes raised what they eat, and eat what they raised and the kids walked to school each morning before books the teacher read a passage of scripture kids and all joined in singing . Then a prayer. Children was taught to be there brothers keeper. There was always plenty of exercise on the farm so's when darkness settled over the farm they was ready and willing to go to bed for a good nights sleep and rest instead of heading for a Pot Party. Farmers had a loose co-op where they swapped work in times of wheat threshing hog-killing and barnraising they usually planted at least five acres of wheat hauled it to the local mill at harvest, deposited sufficient to make flour to last till next harvest,. The miller charged 20% or 12 pounds of wheat for his service and grinding giving the farmer a due-bill. when the little woman gave the word he would hitch up to the wagon or buggy at the mill he presented his due-bill for the amout of flour the cook prescribed and sold the surplus wheat to the miller. meal was acqired in the same way at the big mill or at a small mill powerd by a wood fired steam engine where the farmer exchanged a bushel of shelled corn 56 pounds for a vushel of meal 48 pounds Question will little leadowners who sold to big land owners and took off for the city looking for a job come back to that or come to greif? Assisted by inflation and supervision by city-slickers who wants to get rid of them.

U.S. CONCESSIONS IN VIETNAM

Farleft leaders in the United States blame our country for prolonging the war in Vietnam. Yet since negotiations began in Paris, all the concessions have been made by our country.

Since October of 1968, our government has halted all bombing of North Vietnam and has begun to withdraw combat troops, promising additional withdrawals in the future. Our negotiators have offered to allow the Vietcong to participate in elections in South Vietnam, a giant step toward a coalition government.

North Vietnam, on the other hand, has shelled many South Vietnamese cities, killing countless civilians, has constantly violated the Demilitarized Zone, refused to negotiate with the Saigon government, continued acts of terrorism and sabotage, and flatly refused to allow Red Cross inspection of communist prisoner of war camps or even to release the names of prisoners still alive.

Clearly Hanoi is not interested in making any concessions or compromises as long as our government continues to do so. The communists do not want to settle for anything less than total victory.

Senator John Tower of Texas recently stated on the floor of the Senate: "I believe it is time the Hanoi regime realized that it has extracted from the United States all the concessions to the communists that can be obtained from us, and that now it is their turn to settle down to serious and meaningful negotiations."

Senator John Tower of Texas recently stated on the floor of the Senate: "I believe it is time the Hanoi regime realized that it has extracted from the United States all the concessions to the communists that can be obtained from us, and that now it is their turn to settle down to serious and meaningful negotiations."

The State Department should heed Senator Tower's words and stop making concessions to the communists. Those already made have cost the lives of many U.S. troops and South vietnamese civilians, to no avail. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--This column has turned over to the Justice Department evidence that Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., tried to keep two Mafia couriers out of the clutches of the Selective Service and the U.S. Army. He intervened at the urging of Bernard J. Semel, a fireworks magnate bankrolled by the Mafia.

Even more astonishing, the affable Giaimo keeps up a lively personal friendship with a notorious New England organized crime figure named Paul Coppola. Until recently, they were business partners in a New London, Conn., apartment house.

Under the protective cloak of a federal grand jury subpoena, one of the couriers, James Piccolo, is now telling government lawmen how he used to deliver cash across state lines for the Mafia. He has also sworn that his brother, Anthony, is still running errands for the dreaded underworld society.

In 1965, the Connecticut Congressman kept James Piccolo out of the draft for six months and, in 1968, wangled an early Army discharge for Anthony. Congressmen usually don't intercede with government agencies for people outside their district, yet neither of the Mafia runners has ever lived in Connecticut.

Leslie Whitten of my staff has questioned James Piccolo at length. We have checked out his story as far as possible and have found the details to be accurate. The Justice Department is also using his sworn statements in its crackdown upon organized crime.

--NO QUESTIONS ASKED--

Piccolo has identified the Congressman's friend, Paul Coppola, as an underworld "Shylock" who loans money with no questions asked but collects his pound of flesh from borrowers who can't pay.

In the illicit loan shark business, the victims often are respectable people caught in a financial snare and desperate for quick cash. Mafia money is the easiest to borrow and the hardest to repay. It is passed under the table without any legal formalities. But the borrower mortgages not only his holdings but his health.

The reckoning--and awakening--comes later when he finds it takes most of his weekly payments just to keep up with the interest rates, which run as steep as 20 per cent a week. This is called "juice" in underworld parlance, and it is extracted without mercy from the luckless borrowers. For those who miss a payment or complain, a brutal beating is routine.

"Bernie" Semel, father of the plastic cherry bomb, fell into the toils of the Mafia moneylenders. He tried to patent his dangerous invention in 1961. His application was disapproved, but Semel went into production anyway.

For capital, he borrowed money at Shylock rates from Coppola in Connecticut and from Charles "Fuffi" Rivezzo in New York City. The latter has been identified as an underling of Cormine "The Doctor" Lombardozzi, a nororious Mafia nobster. Coppola "guaranteed" epayment of Semel's loans to he New York Mafia, according o Piccolo, who carried the cash o Semel and delivered the nterest payments back to Coppola and Rivezzo.

--COLD CASH--

Once, Piccolo hid $17,000 in underworld loans in an aluminum foil wrap in his freezer for safekeeping over a weekend. Another time, the Mafia sent a 320-pound thug named "George" to encourage Semel to come up with a $30,000 payment.

George's orders: If Semel didn't produce the money within a week, break one of his arms. On the next day, if no money, break the other arm. Semel borrowed enough from customers and others to meet the deadline.

He got so deeply in hock to the mobsters, however, that they took over control of his fireworks firm. Both Piccolo brothers helped load trucks in Baltimore for Mafia men taking firewords illegally to New York, Illinois and other states where sales are restricted or banned.

Coppola and Semel are strange friends, indeed, for a Congressman who helps write the nation's laws. For both men, as well as Rivezzo, have been convicted of law violations.

Rep. Giaimo, a towering, darkly handsome man of 50, acknowledged to us that he knew Coppola was a gambler and had heard he was a Shylock. Giaimo didn't believe, however, that his friend was linked to the Mafia.

--STRANGE FRIENDSHIP--

The two men often used to meet at the gambler's restaurant, "Papa Coppola's," a pleasant hangout for politicians, lawyers and sporting men in New Haven, Conn. Occasionally, Giaimo also cruised on Coppola's ocean-going yacht and was a guest in his luxurious New Haven home.

The legislator has kept up this relationship during the ll years he has served in Congress--a friendship that "Paulie," as Giaimo speaks of Coppola, likes to boast about.

When Coppola wanted a real estate lawyer, he went to Sachs, Giaimo, Sachs and Sachs. The Congressman, though no longer a partner, is still connected with the firm. Giaimo also invested $1,500 in a New London apartment house, in which Coppola held a 30 per cent interest.

When the Internal Revenue Service dunned Copppla for $9,400 in 1959 taxes, the Giaimo firm got the case. IRS followed up with criminal charges that he evaded some $37,000 taxes in 1961 and 1962. The Justice Department sent Reginald Gibson, a crack Negro attorney, to New Haven to prosecute the case. He described it in court as part of the Justice Department's crackdown on organized crime.

The government eventually dropped one charge, although it had 250 witnesses on tap, and Coppola pleaded guilty to a $15,000 evasion. He drew tow years but is free pending a "jurisdictional" appeal.

Copola's lawyers scoff at talk he is a Mafia man, although a Justice Department spokesman told us Coppola is "very high up" in Connecticut organized crime.

Giaimo, while insisting he did nothing for Coppola in the criminal proceddings and has received nothing from his except possibly a few small campaign contributions, declared loyally: "He's a good friend. He's a good guy."

Note: The Congressman's relationship with Semel, the cherry bomb king, will be discussed in a future column.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor's New Nixon:
Home Front War And--
Peace in the Cabinet Room

Washington, D.C.: --some years ago at lunch a newsman queried: "Dick, why aren't you as outgoing in public as you've been these few hours?" The attorney-at-law looked around the table, laughed heartily and retorted:

"I just don't know. I guess if I could I would have been president."

Political fortunes change. But images really don't. It may be "the tube." It may be tension. But the new Nixon is the old Nixon and the old Nixon but still is the relaxed realist when you get in close--as did the nation's labor leaders the other morning. Very little of the story began at 10 a.m., Oct. 29, has been told--though it's the first, and probably the last, time will sit in the White House Cabinet Room with the man they will try to turn into a one-term president.

There is historic significance to this gathering of the President and the nation's 33 top labor leaders. They are at war. They will remain at war. But they said, that was all right for a made their peace and never again, it seems to me, will American labor berate him as a "More", or course, is the latter-day political Genghis Khan. For they did not find him revanchist, pedantic, uneady of them like it is.

And utterly significant, too, is the fact that many left the room feeling that they could easily back him for re-election should the Democratic Party be remade by the new "reformists" who now antedate even McCarthy.

First, they know that President Nixon did give them one of the strongest allies, one of the friendliest Secretaries of Labor they've had. President himself said that George Shultz is the most "eloquent spokesman" they've had in the Labor Dept. chair since the late James Mitchell, who they once dubbed the "best Secretary of Labor" ever appointed.

The morning had started with a private breakfast during which AFL-CIO President George Meany took sharp issue with Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (now striking for General Electric corp.), who had called for Prof. Shultz's resignation.

Mr. Meany said that Secretary Shultz was one of the best friends they had--certainly in this administration. Then labor's chief went over to the White House for a private half-hour talk with President Nixon and George Shultz in the Oval Room. They walked into the Cabinet Room. Mr. Shultz, spying Paul Jennings, put out his hand, grinned and said something like--"don't get me fired, I like my job and we're still friends, aren't we?" Strike leader Jennings shook hands and the President chuckled, saying: "Are you two going to square off?"

Then they shook hands all around as George Meany did the introductions. When the President and the AFL-CIO prexy came to the aging vice president, the revered black leader, A. Philip Randolph, Mr. Meany said, "and here is another grand old man." The reference was to himself-- recognition that he's heading for 76 though he can outmatch most of the Cabinet and the President on the links.

When all were seated, Communication Workers of America(CWA) President Joe Beirne bellied up too close to the table, and tore his trouser leg on a tack. He pulled it out, and made a historical note of the fact that "On the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 29, Joe Beirne tore his pants while sitting in the seat of the Secretary of Interior."

The CWA leader offered the note for the archives. President Nixon laughed with the others, but decided to forgo the chance to get even. At one point after Mr. Nixon signed the Executive Federal Labor Relations Council order of that two-hour session which he helped George Meany steal one of George Shultz's prize pens. Coffee was served. Mr. Meany puffed on his big black cigar, in which there most positively was no Havana tobacco. National Maritime Union President Joe Curran talked of a bigger merchant fleet and Mr. Nixon said it seemed to be the President hem its funds had just been beefed up by hundreds of thousands. And when Mr. Curran said, that was all right for a starter, Mr. Nixon said, "I know you want more and more." But he added, of course, is the AFL-CIO war cry.

There were some words--and some laughter--when labor's lone banker, Jack Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (ACWA), owner of the Amalgamated Bank, protested against the high cost of money. But Mr. Potofsky said his band refuses to charge the highest interest. There were polite words between the President and the Ladies' Garment Workers Union President Lou Stulberg, though both of them knew that Mr. Stulberg has a bery distinct and often pronounced allergy towards Republicans.

but it was all evidential of the "very proper" relationship which will be the rule of the political game from now on. The President knew they would not react favorably to his plea for wage restraint. He could have guessed it. But there was no necessity. He had on his desk a letter from President Meany, mailed on the 27th, rebuffing him, denying that wages were too high and blaming commerce and industry's profits and prices for inflation. Mr. Meany also made it evident that the fight for wage increase would continue.

Evidence lies in labor's decision for final conflict with the General Electric. The President had told them that he would be neutral in this strike. This was reported here earlier. But what was nor reported is the fact that Mr. Nixon sais he would intervene if he were asked. No one has asked him.

Instead, the AFL-CIO committee of three, the longshoremen's Teddy Gleason, the electrical workers' Joe Keenan and the steelworkers' I.W. Abel, with Mr. Meany and Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland as ex-officio members--has decided to raise some $15 million for the battle against the nation's fourth biggest corporation.

A year ago, Mr. Nixon would have been denounced as the advance man for Attila the Hun. But not now. They met. They got to know each other. There was no tube between them. They are still at war. But in a more peaceful fashion.

To Wives of Drunks... Try, Then Throw Him Out

Dear Ann Landers: I am fed up with your advice to wives of alcoholics that goes like this: "Have a little compassion. The man is sick. Alcoholism is an illness. Etc., etc., etc."

It's apparent that you have had no experience with alcoholism. Well, I have, so please listen. After 38 years of hauling my drunken bum out of hotels, motels, jails, hospitals and other women's bedrooms, I resent being told I lack compassion. If you think I'm hard-hearted, wait until you read the rest of this letter.

Three weeks ago I received a call from the police. They asked me to come to the morgue and identify a man they believed to be my husband. I recognized him immediately since he was in a prone position, which is the way I saw him most of his life.

I had tried kindness and compassion. It didn't work. I begged him to go to A.A. and even offered to go with him. He refused. He wouldn't see a counselor or a clergyman because they were all "fakes." He was no father, no husband, no provider, no human being. It took 38 years to figure out that compassion was not the answer. If I had it to do over I'd have thrown him out and let the sot sink or swim.---TELLING IT LIKE IT IS AND WISH YOU'D DO THE SAME.

Dear Telling It: You have a valid point and I would not deny it. Not all approaches work for all people. Authorities have been rethinking the techniques for treating alcoholics since since alcoholism has assumed epidemic proportions in this country. Many distinguished authorities now say that love and compassion fail, the alcoholic who refuses to accept counseling or medication, should be thrown out. They now believe that some drunks will straighten themselves out only when it is made abundantly clear that they are responsible for themselves--that no one will provide them with room and board, coddle them, clean up after them or make excuses for them to family, friends and the boss. So, the advice is now as follows: When love and compassion fail, throw the bum out.

Dear Ann Landers: There must be other women who get the silent treatment from their husbands. Why? Don't tell me some men are just naturally quiet. My husband, who is a physician, is considered brilliant and outgoing by everyone who knows him. Whenever we attend a medical meeting Ed just about takes over. He is on his feet challenging, presenting his views, and he asks more questions than anybody. The chairmen always have a problem shutting him up. When we have company, Ed talks a blue streak. Yet, when the two of us are alone, he can't think of a single thing to talk about. If he didn't enjoy my company, why did he marry me?---Ignored Wife

Dear Wife: Obviously he didn't marry you because you were a great converstaionalist. It must have been something else. Search your memory and maybe you'll come up with the answer.

Confidential to Impaled On The Horns Of A Dilemma: This is the original Do-It- Yourself project. No one can decide for you. My personal opinion, however, is that you'd be be better off to pass up the one with "that certain something" and take the one who has something certain.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism--Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Student Teachers Must be Versatile

Student teachers must be versatile. There is now no doubt in Susan Kollmeyer's mind. She has just completed her student teaching period with Mrs. Dorothy James in Sikeston Middle School's home economics department.

Miss Kollmeyer, a native of Farmington, says she thinks the Middle School's program of interest activities is a good idea for this age level. It gives the students a chance to find out their interests lie, and just what they do like.

Interest activities, new to this student teacher, is also new to many parents of Middle School students. One hour of each Wednesday afternoon is given to the students, who report to a classroom with a supervising teacher and work on a project which was selected at the beginning of the school year.

Miss Kollmeyer and Mrs. James are instructing their interest activities group in embroidery, basic sewing and yarn work. To explain the need for versatility, Miss Kollmeyer said she has instructed not only the stitchery work, but personal improvement, and has introduced a section on foods and meal planning.

"I have loved working with junior high students. You never know what they're going to do next. And they're not afraid to tell you what they feel or what they're thinking," Miss Kollmeyer concluded.

A-State Ranked Fourth

Rampaging North Dakota State remained a solid favorite for the top spot, while Montana and Delaware gained ground today in the weekly Associated Press small college football poll.

The unbeaten Bison, who thundered past Northern Iowa 41-13 last weekend for their eighth straight victory, drew 10 of the 14 first-place votes and 250 points in the balloting by a panel of sports writers and broadcastes.

Montana, which nudged rival Montana State 7-6 for its eighth straight, moved up one notch to second with 209 points.

Delaware, 6-1, roared all the way from seventh to third on the strength of a 44-0 blasting of strong Rutgers, and Arkansas State, 5-1, jumped from 11th to fourth after turning back Lamar Tech 20-0.

Akron, 6-2, moved up three spots to fifth although it had trouble putting down Central Michigan 9-6.

Alcorn A&M, 5-0-1, dropped from second to sixth after a 2323 deadlock with Arkansas AM&N and New Mexico Highlands, 6-0-1, was seventh, up two spots, after a 37-0 coast past Western State of Colorado.

Louisiana Tech and Texas A&I dropped out of contention for the No. 1 spot after each suffered their first loss of the season—both by one point.

Tech, 5-1, bowed to Southern Mississippi 24-23 and slipped from fifth to eighth, while Texas A&I, 6-1, plunged from fourth to a ninth-place tie with Wittenberg after a 13-12 loss to Sull Ross State.

Wittenberg, 6-0, advanced from 15th to 10th with a 45-0 trouncing of Bucknell.

Rounding out the second 10 were No. 11 Abilene Christian, No. 12 Northern Arizona, No. 13 East Tennessee, No. 14 Western Carolina, No. 15 Colorado State College, No. 16 Sacramento State, No. 17 Humboldt State, No. 18 Indiana, Pa., No. 19 Tampa and No. 20 Indiana State.

A.L. Cy Young Award To Cuellar, McLain

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in the history of balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America a major award wound up in a tie today when Mike Cuellar of Baltimore and Denny McLain of Detroit each received 10 votes for the 1969 American League Cy Young Award.

The other votes of the 24-man committee, two from each league city, went to Jim Perry of Minnesota, who got three, and Dave McNally of Baltimore, who received one.

The Cy Young winner in the National League, announced last week, was Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, who topped both majors with 25 victories. Seaver received 23 of the 24 votes in the National League.

McLain was a unanimous winner of the award in 1968 when he won 31 games. Bob Gibson also scored a 24-0 shutout in the National in 1968.

"I'm surprised," said McLain in San Jose, Calif. "I thought sure they'd go with the pennant winner."

The award, conceived by Ford Frick, former baseball commissioner, originally went to the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues. In 1967 the writers voted to present an award to the outstanding pitcher in each league.

The closest thing to a tie came in 1958 when a 15-man committee gave Bob Turley of the New York Yankees five votes, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee four and Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, each three.

McLain, sharing the laurels, was the first American Leaguer to repeat. Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers won it three times. McLain had a 24-9 won-lost record for the Tigers and a 2.80 earned run average. His nine shutouts led the league.

Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer of the writers association, said there were no tie-breaking provisions. The secret ballot is conducted by mail with only regular season games taken into consideration. The ballots are to be mailed between the close of the regular season and the start of the playoffs.

Cuellar, a left-hander with a darting screwball pitch, came to the Orioles from Houston in a trade last winter. He helped pitch Baltimore to the pennant with a 23-11 record and a 2.38 earned run average.

Perry was Minnesota's big winner with a 20-6 record and a 2.78 earned run average. McNally was 20-7 with the Orioles and had a 3.21 earned run mark.

Pirate Announcer Switchess to Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Jim Woods, announcer for the Pittsburgh Pirates for the past 11 years, will join the St. Louis Cardinals baseball broadcasting team, Anheuser - Busch, Inc., announced Wednesday.

Woods will assist Jack Buck, who replaced Harry Caray last month as the voice of the Cardinals. Caray had broadcast Cardinal games for 25 years.

Big Weekend In Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four weekends of bitter football combat in the Big Eight Conference have served only to eliminate two teams from contention, but either Missouri or Oklahoma is expected to scuttle those calculations of a possible five - way tie Saturday.

The Tigers and Sooners, preseason favorites, could stage the most bitter battle yet this 1969 season in the Big Eight at Columbia, Mo.

The stakes will be the highest of any of the games on a docket which also includes Kansas State at Oklahoma State, Colorado at Kansas and Iowa State at Nebraska.

While Kansas State and Nebraska also have only one league loss, as do Missouri and Oklahoma, the winner of the Tiger-Sooner shootout in Missouri's Memorial Stadium should have the inside track to the championship.

Missouri plays at Iowa State, 1-3, and Kansas, 0-4, the final two weeks, while Oklahoma catches Kansas and Nebraska at home and goes to Oklahoma State in its windup.

Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, whose Buffaloes lost to Oklahoma 42-20 and defeated Missouri 31-24, had this observation:

"Oklahoma and Missouri are both superb football teams. It should be an excellent game. The team that gets the better defensive effort should win. I'd like to play Oklahoma again because you always want another shot at the one that beat you."

Oklahoma, humiliated 55-21 by Kansas State two weeks ago, rebounded sharply behind Steve Owens' punishing runs for 248 yards to crush Iowa State 37-14 last week.

Clayton's Extra Points Make Difference

Poplar Bluff's Hosie Moss has closed to within two touchdowns of tying Don Clayton of Malden for the TD lead, among SEMO Prep Gridders but is 24 points back of the Green Wave backfield star in total points as Clayton has picked up 12 points on two-point conversions and leads the district with 138 points to 114 for Moss.

Moss has scored five TD's in each of his last two games in closing the gap and has games remaining with Blytheville, Ark. and Sikeston while Clayton will run against Gideon and Dexter in his team's final.

Another Malden player is tops in scoring, that being kicking star Charlie Rogers, who's 18 PAT's is tops in the district along with South Pemiscot's Calvin Carter. Carl Gross has 17 for the best in the Northern Division.

Cards Get Culver For Washburn

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Pitchers Ray Washburn of the St. Louis Cardinals and George Culver of the Cincinnati Reds switched teams Wednesday in a player deal announced by the Cardinals.

Both Washburn and Culver are right-handers and both have pitched a no-hit game.

Washburn, 31, won three and lost eight and had a 3.07 earned run average working as a starter and reliever for the Cardinals last season. A year earlier, he had a 14-8 record and a 2.26 ERA. His four shutouts of 1968 include a 2-0 no-hitter against San Francisco.

Culver, 26, had a 5-7 record and a 4.28 ERA last season. He was on the Reds disabled list as a result of hepatitis for nearly two months.

Culver also notched his nohit game in 1968, a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia.

SEMO State Homecoming Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State College will be playing in its third Homecoming game in as many weeks when the Indians entertain Northeast Missouri State College of Kirksville at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at Houck Stadium.

In the first two Homecoming outings, the visiting Indians put a damper on the festivities by defeating the home team. Now, as the host club, they are hoping the Bulldogs of Kirksville will be unable to do the same to them.

If the weather is decent, a crowd of near 10,000 is expected for the afternoon battle which may very well decide the MIAA championship.

Both teams enter the contest with identical 3-0 conference marks. Southeast Missouri State owns the best overall record, 6-1, the Indians' only loss having been to Murray, Ky., State University. Northeast Missouri State has a 4-1-1 slate, having been beaten by one point by Eastern Illinois University of Charleston and tied 22-22 by Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo.

If Northeast Missouri State wins Saturday's game, he Bulldogs only have to defeat Northwest Missouri State College of Maryville next week to win the MIAA crown tonight. If Southeast Missouri State wins, the Bulldogs could still earn a share of the title should the Indians stumble next week in their game with Central Missouri State College of Warrensburg.

Bulldog coach Russ Sloan, in his first year at the helm, was pleased with his team's defense last week in Northeast Missouri State's 21-14 win over the University of Missouri – Rolla. He called it "our finest defensive effort this season." The defensive unit held the Miners to 28 yards on the ground and 87 through the air.

On the other hand Southeast Missouri State head coach Tom Thrower, for the first time this fall, could find nothing to praise his defensive unit for in the Indians' 33-29 victory last week over Southwest Missouri State College of Springfield. The defense allowed the winless Bears to core almost as many points as they had in six previous contests as the lead changed hands five times during the game.

Thrower, however, was more than happy with the performance of his offensive line, saying "It won the game for us." Offensive backfield star for the Indians was senior fullback Bruce Hoffman of Park Forest, Ill., who scored three touchdowns and averaged 4.5 yards per carry.

The Southeast Missouri coach was blunt about the Indians' chances this week. He said, "We are really going to have to play an excellent football game both offensively and defensively or we can't win." Thrower said the Bulldogs have the best defense in the conference, "one which keeps you in the hole," and a balanced offense, equally capable of running or passing.

Northeast Missouri State's defense is anchored by 255-pound senior tackle John Suell from St. Louis and 200- pound senior guard Frank Wagner of Oak Law, Ill. Both were all-conference choices in 1968 and Wagner, in addition, made honorable mention in one College Division All- America poll.

Offensively the Bulldogs are led by freshman Lenville Elliott, a 180- pounder from Richmond, who has rushed 128 times for 412 yards. Second leading rusher is Lloyd Wiese, a 165- pound senior from Baxter, Iowa, who has carried the ball 80 times for 277 yards.

Charles Blakley, a 165 -pound junior from St. Joseph, has rushed 26 times for 144 yards. He is also the team's leading receiver with 16 receptions for 243 yards and four touchdowns.

Northeast Missouri State quarterback Don Cummings, a 185- pound junior from Lombard, Ill., has put the ball in the air 114 times and completed 53 of the aerials for 843 yards and 10 touchdowns.

The Indians' passer is senior Greg Schroeder, a 185- pounder from St. Louis, who has completed 77 of 146 attempts for 1,142 yards and eight touchdowns.

Southeast Missouri State's leading rusher is junior Al Holmes, a 160- pounder from St. Louis, who has carried 82 times for 637 yards. Hoffman, a 200-pounder, has rushed 135 times for 520 yards, and Art Miller, a 175 - pound sophomore from Kirkwood, has carried 86 times for 336 yards. Miller has also made 17 catches for 343 yards and five touchdowns.

Leader in total receptions is Ken Joggerst, a 215- pound senior from Ste. Genevieve. He has 21 catches for 281 yards.

Last year Southeast Missouri State downed Northeast Missouri State 29-16.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here's How to Clean Up That Rusty Old Flatiron

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Jeanette wanted to know how to improve the looks of an old flatiron. I washed my iron with a soap-and-water solution. When dry, I used a wire brush to remove the rust. A whisk broom and dry cloth removed the dust created by the brushing. I painted my iron with an antirust paint in wrought-iron black (flat black could be used) for a more "natural" appearance. I have had no recurrence of the rust.—MRS. R. S.

DEAR POLLY—Tell Jeanette to put black shoe polish on her old iron, take a cloth and rub it hard while the polish is still damp and the iron will look original. I do not think one should ever paint old cast iron.—MILDRED

DEAR GIRLS—After the rust is removed, stove black could be used on the iron, just as our ancestors put it on their wood-burning stoves.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know if it is possible to remove printing from Christmas cards. I have some with the wrong name printed on them and would like to make use of these cards if I can.—MRS. B. H.

DEAR POLLY—I make wind chimes out of old keys. Take pieces of string or twine about six inches long and tie them through the holes in the keys. Fasten these strings to a piece of wood or even a twig and put a string on top for hanging it. Paint the keys any desired color and they make pretty tinkling sounds.—ELAINE

DEAR POLLY—Our family recently went on an outing and took along a picnic lunch. After finishing the fried chicken, we discovered we had forgotten the wet washcloth we usually carry along in a plastic bag. Paper napkins are not sufficient to do this job. We were far from water, so my father suggested rubbing an ice cube from our ice chest between our hands and drying them with our napkins. It did the trick and there were no more greasy hands to soil clothes and car.—K. H.

Carter Sees $5.5 Million Shortage in Welfare Programs

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Proctor N. Carter, state welfare director, said Monday two welfare programs face a $5.5 million shortage in the current fiscal year.

He said both the Medicaid program for indigents and the general relief program will run out of funds in April unless an emergency appropriation is made available.

The Medicaid program will need $4.5 million at the present rate of expenditures and the general relief program $1 million.

In addition, he said, his staff is trying to administer the "battered child" law despite the fact the 1969 Legislature did not provide any money for it. If an abused child needs a foster home or other special care it is up to the Welfare Division to provide it.

Titanus giganteus, which lives along the Amazon, is the world's largest beetle. Five inches long, its powerful jaws can cut a pencil in two.

Both the male and female pigeon produce "pigeon milk" during the breeding season.

The double-decker flatbed pick-up truck.

Any way you look at the Volkswagen Pick-up, it isn't your run-of-the-mill pick-up.

For instance, you can load it from all 3 sides. The left side, right side, and back side fold down.

And with all 3 sides folded down at once, the VW Pick-up becomes the VW Flatbed.

But whether you use it as a flatbed or a pick-up, you have a completely flat deck 5 feet wide by 9 feet long strong enough to hold a ton.

Belowdecks there's a lockable weatherproof compartment the width of the truck that holds 20 cubic feet of anything you want to keep out of the weather.

There's something else belowdecks that's weatherproof. An engine that can't boil over or freeze up because it's air-cooled. And it's rear-mounted for better traction in sand, snow, mud, or wherever you do your hauling.

Whatever you're hauling, it'll be a smoother haul because we added a double-joint rear axle to the independent torsion bar suspension.

The VW Pick-up is the only pick-up that delivers VW economy. So there are two more things you'll spend less money on. Gas. (You get up to 23 miles to a gallon of regular.) Oil. (You take pints instead of quarts at oil changes.)

It's part of our plan to leave you with more money to put back into the business.

Or maybe into another VW truck.

Let's End Now the Cruel Sport (?) of Bullfighting

By DAVID POLING

If it weren't for the writings of Ernest Hemingway and the promotions of the Spanish government, bullfighting would have ended with the Inquisition. Since both activities employed pain and bloodletting (searching for the moment of truth), one must attack the promoters and shield the victims.

And this is just what Cleveland Amory has done in the October issue of Holiday magazine, under the theme, "Bullfighting Must Go." With the magazine editorial courage and Amory's powerhouse piece, you now believe that we just might see the end of this vicious, cruel sport.

Amory notes that the bullfighting fad is cooling off in Spain. For one thing, there are 312 bull rings in that country and the supply is not keeping up with demand. The animals being forced into the ring too often are tiny, skinny, frightened beasts—hardly the image of a raging "toro" that crunches into the grandstand, ripping up lumber, siding and padded horses.

The article in Holiday takes all the glamor, mystique and religiosity of bullfighting out of the "ole" foolishness and shows you the horror and sadism that passes for sport. What Jacqueline Onassis calls "a beautiful spectacle," and Hemingway, "a ballet of death," we have to identify as inhuman to man and beast, a corruption of life and living.

Amory has read a shelf full of books on bullfighting but it was from a journal by Captain Basil Hall (1824) that the Spanish strategy in Latin America was revealed. A resident of Chile told Hall the effects of animal cruelty on the populace:

"The Spaniards had systematically sought by these cruel shows and other similar means, to degrade the taste of their colonies and thereby more easily tyrannize the inhabitants. The people, first rendered utterly insensible to the feelings of others by constant familiarity with cruelty and injustice to animals, soon became indifferent to the wrongs of their country and lost, in the end, all motive to generous exertion in themselves."

The political and social dividends of bullfighting are exceeded only by the religious folkways in a sickening display of theological nonsense. Says Amory:

"Not only are bullfights held on feast days, but no small part of the nomenclature of bullfighting comes from religion. The bullfight begins, for example, with the band playing the Spanish quickstep march named for the patron saint of all bullfighting, La Virgin de la Macarena. The veronica pass, for another example, is named after St. Veronica, who wiped the face of our Lord. The explanation invariably given is that the saint is always represented holding the cloth by the two corners in the same manner the bullfighter holds the cape for the start of the veronica."

And, of course, we have all seen those hushed scenes in the movies where the young matador kneels before the altar, ready to emerge into the arena and prove his valor by slaughtering another beast and tossing his ears to a deserving fan. When you return from Spain, don't tell people about the bullfights; you will only be revealing a subhuman streak in your own soul. I'm praying that the bulls will be getting tourists with a conscience.

Big 747 To Tax Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 747, Boeing's biggest bird, makes its airline debut next year. But airport officials fear they cannot provide nests large enough to handle the luxury jetliner.

"They will produce instant traffic peaks on the ground, more passengers, more cargo, more visitors, more terminal public use and parking facility needs, more clogged access roads and no less aircraft noise," says one worried official.

The 747—capable of carrying between 360 and 500 passengers and twice the cargo of the now popular 707—will be first put into commercial service by Pan American World Airways.

Pan Am's chairman, Harold E. Gray, sees less of a problem.

"Any terminal that today can handle two 707 aircraft or DC8 aircraft within the same time span—say about 15 minutes— can equally well handle a 747," he said.

But Warren H. Hawes, director of economic services for Airport Operators Council International, Inc., the non-profit trade association of governmental bodies owning or operating major airports throughout the world, disagrees.

"The immediate problem is that the 747 will be in service before the airports are ready for it," he said.

"We are building, at the airports, as fast as we can, but there are many tremendous problems. The biggest problem of all is people—handling them, ticketing them, feeding them, getting them to and from the airport."

Pan Am paid a half-billion-dollars for 25 747s in 1966 and later increased the order to 33 planes, costing a total of $705 million.

Thus Pan Am had a large say in shaping of the 747. Its first planes will carry 58 persons in a forward first class compartment, and 304 in economy class. The jetliner will include a lounge on an upper deck, reached by spiral staircase from the main deck, and a bar.

The four-man flight crew is housed forward of the lounge, 29 feet above the ground. The plane's tail is taller than the average six-story building.

The 747 has 10 doors, six galleys and 12 lavatories, and will carry 14 stewardesses.

In preparation for the superjets, the airline industry is investing hundreds of millions of dollars in new computerized reservations systems and automated ticket facilities, and is working toward an automated baggage delivery system.

Other big buyers of the 747 include United Air Lines, with 18 of the $30 million airplanes on order, and Trans World Airlines, with 15 747s on order.

Altogether, 27 airlines have placed orders with Boeing for 153 planes.

The International Civil Aviation Organization, a United Nations agency, estimates 747s will be operating at 105 airports by the end of 1973, and at 67 of them by next year.

The International Air Transport Association has estimated that only 33 airports will be equipped to its recommended standards by the end of 1970, however.

What of the plane's safety? Former Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd said two years ago, "We cannot afford to lose a single one of these aircraft."

Junior Black, used car salesman, stands beside this beautiful, yellow Marquis and tells Julie Crader, November Calendar Girl, about the easy handling and many luxury items such as black vinyl top, power brakes and steering, radio, and other things. Come see for yourself.

New Interest Develops in 163-Year-Old Church Site

JACKSON, Mo. (AP) — All that remains of the Old Bethel Baptist church established in 1806 is a cemetery, a monument and a few stones that may have been part of the foundation of the church building.

What happened to the building — whether it burned, was razed or simply was abandoned and deteriorated—is not known.

The church functioned at its site south of Jackson until 1861 when the congregation moved to a house northwest of Jackson on Byrds Creek.

Descendants of the original founders still live in Cape County, many of them having taken prominent parts in community affairs through the years.

The old site is known as that of the first Protestant church west of the Mississippi River and is just south of Jackson. The congregation that was to build the church settled here some time before 1806 and on Oct. 11 that year voted to build a small log structure on the farm of Thomas Bull. The first church was too small and in 1812 it was replaced by a hewn log building 30 by 24 feet.

In addition to religious purposes the early building saw service for some civil affairs before Cape County was formed and a courthouse was erected.

At present, access to the area involves crossing private property and a road is needed. Once a road was established it would be possible a replica of the old church could be constructed and Otto A. Koenig has asked Cape County Court if the county has an old bridge which might be used to cross Goose Creek.

A lane an eighth of a mile long and a bridge over Goose Creek would permit entrance to the site. The court promised to visit the site with the highway engineer to see what might be done.

Koenig, librarian for Riverside Regional Library, James R. Nelson, principal of Jackson R-II High School, and Edwin W. Sander, county superintendent of schools, spearheaded the latest "discovery" of the old church site.

With an ax and sickle they found the old cemetery in the underbrush above Goose Creek east of the Jackson disposal plant. A Sunday School class from First Baptist Church became interested and cleared the brush. Recently a group of 24 persons from Cape Girardeau visited the site but as yet no organization has been formed to develop or preserve the area.

Twice before there has been interest in the site. In 1906 the Baptist Association of Missouri, meeting in Cape Girardeau, placed a granite monument commemorating the centennial year of the Baptists west of the Mississippi.

In 1943 an attempt was made to open access to the site but the effort had little lasting effect.

Kidnaped Boy Slain Before Ransom Bid

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The American businessman's son who was kidnaped and killed on a farm near Sao Paulo was already dead when his abductors demanded $12,500 ransom, Brazilian police say.

Authorities said Patrick Dolan, 18-year-old son of the vice president of Swift and Co. of Brazil, was kidnaped by two men while on his way to school last Thursday and was shot and buried on their farm a few miles west of the city.

Police kept the kidnaping secret in hopes of recovering the youth alive. But they found his body Wednesday and later announced the arrest of Jose Dias Rezende and his 25-year-old son, Jose Daniel Dias Rezende, an acquaintance of the victim. They were charged with the kidnap-slaying.

Officers said one or both of the kidnapers picked up Dolan in a car as he waited for a bus to take him to the American School, where he was a senior. After killing him, police said, the Rezendes contacted his father, Richard J. Dolan, and demanded the $12,500 ransom.

Dolan, following instructions in notes and telephone calls, left the money in his car at a Sao Paulo cemetery. The kidnapers did not pick it up and later instructed him to put it in a garbage can near the city airport.

Dolan complied, and the kidnapers apparently retrieved the money from the garbage can. They asked Monday for a second payment of $12,500, but did not say where to leave it and made no further contact with the family.

Police arrested the younger Rezende Tuesday night. They said he confessed, told them where they could find the body, and implicated his father. Officers arrested the father late Wednesday.

The youth's body probably will be flown to Kansas City, Mo., a consulate spokesman said. He said the family has relatives in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Color TV Approved for Moon Photos

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency successfully tested a color television camera Wednesday and said the Apollo 12 astronauts will take it with them to the moon.

The camera, which had interference troubles on earlier tests, was plugged into the lunar landing craft atop a Saturn 5 rocket and pictures of a color wheel, the Atlantic Ocean and other objects were transmitted to a receiver at Apollo Mission Control Center in Houston, Tex.

"The pictures were clear and beautiful," a NASA official commented.

After careful evaluation of the test, experts gave the go-ahead for Apollo 12 to carry the color TV camera.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean are to land on the moon's Ocean of Storms two weeks from now and will be able to beam the first live color television pictures from the bleak, cratered lunar surface.

If the camera had failed the test, the astronauts would have taken a black and white camera like that used by the Apollo 11 moonwalkers in July.

Robinson Puts Idle Funds in Treasury Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — State Treasurer William E. Robinson invested $100 million of idle state funds Wednesday in U.S. Treasury bills drawing approximately 7.55 per cent interest.

Robinson said the money can be called on demand whenever the need arises to meet large state expenses.

For example, he said, the State Highway Department will need about $40 million this month to pay for completed contracts and about $28 million next month, depending on how the work proceeds.

The next big allocation of state school aid under the foundation program calls for an expenditure of $80 million to $85 million Dec. 15.

The money became available for investment when Robinson withdrew all idle funds from state banks Nov. 1 which were paying 5 per cent interest on 30-day deposits.

He said the new investment leaves about $38 million in the state's non-interest bearing account to meet day to day operating needs.

One of the displays were a team of horses plowing near a stump and scared by a rattlesnake. Another was a scene that occurred when his father was cutting cattle from a herd. A bull attacked the horse and threw his rider.

All the work is done by an intricate process, with the color black or copper.

Herd of Fallow Deer Set Free In Swope Park

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A small herd of fallow deer has been released to roam through the zoo area of Swope Park and the sight of animals moving through the trees and across lawns has been enough to excite visitors.

"There's an elk loose down by the ape house," one park visitor informed a keeper last week, not knowing about the release of the deer.

"I doubt that. We don't have any elk," was the reply to the visitor.

Until last month the deer at the zoo had occupied a chain link fence enclosure.

"They have deer parks in England," reasoned Don Dietlein, zoo director. "Why not in Kansas City?"

So the deer were turned loose from their bare mud pen and now they browse on open lawns or retreat from time to time into brushy areas.

"That's the way you should see the animals," Dietlein argues. "See how you catch a glimpse now and then. This is the kind of naturalistic display we want.

"Fallow deer are right for this. They are known for their gentle dispositions."

And, he says, "It is all up to the public now to behave themselves so that we can have things like this for them to see."

Hope Retains Great Love For Roberta

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A girl named Roberta has an irresistible allure for Bob Hope, as he demonstrates once again with his monthly television special tonight.

"The Bob Hope Special" on NBC will be yet another rendition of the Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach operetta, "Roberta," which the comedian considers a good-luck talisman. And no wonder. That was the Broadway show which first brought Hope to national attention.

The late Messrs. Kern and Harbach might have trouble recognizing the version which Hope presents on TV tonight. The book will have numerous modern touches; only the songs will remain the same. And with tunes like "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Lovely to Look At," "Yesterday" (not the Beatle song and "You're Devastating," it's understandable why they're unchanged.

Bob Hope talked about his long association with "Roberta" one day after returning from Dallas, where he taped the show at the new Bob Hope Theater of Southern Methodist University. He first did the show on Broadway when the original version appeared in 1933-34. Two other newcomers were in the cast: George Murphy and Fred MacMurray.

"I got a lot of movie offers from the show, but I turned them all down," he recalled. "I was still nursing a grudge against Orangeville because they didn't like the test I did in 1930.

"I stayed with 'Roberta' until the summer, and then the producer wanted us all to work for scale (minimum salary) during the hot months. I had too many good offers to play movie houses on stage shows, so I cut out."

Hope did three more Broadway shows before succumbing to the Hollywood lure. He agreed to come west for Paramount to do "The Big Broadcast of 1936," in which he was given a song called "Thanks for the Memory."

In 1938, Hope returned to "Roberta," playing the operetta in the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera opposite Carole Landis. He bears a grim memory of that engagement: Just before the opening night curtain, the fire sprinkler system went off and soaked his entire wardrobe.

In 1958, Hope went back to the theater and played "Roberta" in St. Louis to mark the 40th anniversary of the Municipal Light Opera. The invitation came from his close friend, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. Hope performed the musical in one of his TV specials that fall.

Now it's "Roberta" revisited, with newcomers John Davidson and Michele Lee as co-stars.

"The show holds up just as good as ever," said Hope. "We played it straight through before the theater audience, with local camera crews shooting it from the rear of the theater. The audience was great, even when they were paying a thousand dollars a seat for charity.

Disarmament Hopes Seen In Soviet's Money Pinch

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The staff of President Nixon's National Security Council is not heavy with men who trust the Soviet Union. The Pentagon high echelons have made no secret of their suspicions of Moscow's intentions.

Yet there is considerable, though restrained, optimism in both these shops as Washington readies for disarmament talks Nov. 17 with the Kremlin's men.

No reappraisal has been made here of Soviet intentions. The belief is that Moscow, as in the past, will supply aid to Castro in Cuba, to Ho Chi Minh's successors in Hanoi, to Soviet-backed Communist groups within France, Red China, Latin America, Africa, the Middle East and whereever and that Brezhnev's men will foment underground insurgencies wherever practical.

The cautious hope, rather, lies in the latest of a series of unpublished reports now circulating in high official circles on the growing inability of the Russian government to foot its internal "bills."

It is becoming apparent (at least from the statistical estimates) that the Soviet Union must now:

- Cut back on consumer production to a level that would cause serious internal dissent, or
- Cut back on heavy space, military and related spending, or
- Go slow on building the industrial base that will determine how strong the Soviet Union will be 10 years or 20 years from now.

The figures indicate that the Soviet Union has recently robbed from its investment in future growth in order to meet its military and space build-ups.

For men who like to think in decades, this is not a good solution.

Therefore, the reasoning here is, that Brezhnev and his associates must find some way to cut costs in strategic defense and space now so that they will not in their arms build-up today destroy the industrial base and insure their military inferiority in the late 1970s and the 1980s.

(And secondly, the Russian plans do not call for fighting two major enemies on two fronts simultaneously. Regardless of how the Moscow-Peking talks turn out, the Kremlin will be wary of a Mao Tse-tung-run China with nuclear weapons. Moscow, the reasoning goes, must stabilize relations a little with the United States so long as the Chinese threat continues.)

With all this said, no official this reporter has talked to expects quickie negotiations. At best, they will be long, involved and tiresome, with haggling over every point. Even if the Russians were not inveterate hagglers, the complexity of nuclear-missile arms subject precludes any settlement within the near future.

If You Were the Judge

Beard Permitted For Probation Officer

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sheldon was a probation officer with a flair for the debonair. In addition to always being well groomed, he grew and maintained a well trimmed beard.

And, while there were those who appreciated the shrubbery on his chin, his superior officer depreciated it. In fact, he ordered Sheldon to shave it off on the grounds that a fuzz shouldn't wear fuzz. "I won't do it," insisted Sheldon. "I've grown accustomed to my face." The result? Sheldon was fired on the grounds of insubordination, to wit; for refusing to obey an order of a superior. Without ado, Sheldon attacked the reasonableness of the order in court and demanded the return of his job.

Sheldon's superior, however, held fast.

"When a relatively young person wears a beard," he explained to the judge, "he's identified with beatniks and that's the worse thing that can happen to a probation officer."

"On the contrary," was Sheldon's answer, "wearing a beard can also be a symbol of the Jehovah image, of a stern father. And, obviously, that's good."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Sheldon reinstated to his job as demanded?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that a beard is a personal embellishment and an intelligent wearer of one no doubt regards it as an improvement to his appearance. While some people may flaunt a beard as a symbol of unruliness, noted the judge, there is no foundation for regarding a probation officer as being rebellious or eccentric merely because he too chooses to wear one. His tenure should be based upon his performance and not his beard.

Gen. Bradley Agrees With Nixon Policy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—America's only living five-star general, Omar N. Bradley, 86, said that he thoroughly agrees with the Vietnam policy outlined in President Nixon's Monday night speech.

"I can think of nothing more disastrous than an overt withdawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam," he declared.

General Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group in World War II and later Army chief of staff, came to nearby Independence to visit his old boss—former President Harry S. Truman—and to address the Military Order of World Wars at the Kansas City Club.

Bradley remains on the Army's active list as a five-star general, but noted his functions are largely advisory. Most of his time is taken by his post as chairman of the board of a watch company (Bulova).

"The thought of the retribution that could occur in Vietnam as the result of an immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces is staggering," said Bradley. "South Vietnam could be overwhelmed—there could be complete slaughter of those who had worked on the side of South Vietnam and this country's contribution there."

Although the general said he felt South Korea and the Philippines had made a significant contribution as allies to the U.S. effort in Vietnam, he felt others of our supposed allies had "let us down."

"I certainly don't understand the attitude of France, or other European nations, who only criticize U.S. presence in Vietnam.

Asked whether he thought the South Vietnamese eventually could take over their own war effort, Bradley replied:

"I don't know enough about the training of their troops to give an accurate answer. I have visited some of the training sites but I would have to leave the answer to someone who knows more about their progress."

What of Vietnam war moratoriums, that of Oct. 15 and the second scheduled for November?

"I think they can do nothing but to provide encouragement to the Communists, however well intentioned the demonstrators are. I realize their concern, but I don't think what they are doing will help."

Asked about his visit with Truman, Bradley said simply, "We discussed old times."

Did they discuss the Nixon Vietnam speech?

"No," he said with a smile, "we didn't talk about that."

The general's attractive and vivacious wife was asked about her visit with Mrs. Truman. Said Mrs. Bradley:

"Mostly, we just sat and smiled at each other."

After his speech and a formal news conference, the general consented to a private interview.

Who's your favorite general? Bradley was asked.

"If I were to pick one great general of modern times," he said, "it would have to be Gen. George C. Marshall, who gave us a year's head start in the realization that World War II would become a fact of life for this country. Military planning, which Marshall initiated long before Pearl Harbor, gave us this start."

ARMED FORCES

Second Lt. James R. Hulen, Sikeston, stationed with the 12th infantry, near the Cambodia border, has proof that cigarettes can be harmful to the body.

At least it proved fatal and injurious to two Viet Cong soldiers.

A clipping from a newspaper published in Vietnam and datelined Camp Radcliff, gives an account of a patrol in hostile territory.

Hulen, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hulen, 123 Second St., was patrolling in the Central Highlands, six miles west of An Khe, with Pfc. James Pulling, Ticonderoga, N.Y., when they spotted two Viet Cong soldiers searching the area.

"At first I didn't think they were armed, Pulling said, "but as they started to run for the bushes, I saw two bolt action weapons and opened with my M16."

"Assisted by Sgt. Kenneth Laviolette, Richmond, Ind., Private first class Pulling soon put a stop to the retreat by the VC, killing one and detaining the other. Curious to what the two had been looking for, Lieutenant Hulen and his men searched them.

"All we found," Hulen said, "were three packs of cigarettes and an assortment of the smaller packages that come in C-rations. They must have needed a smoke badly."

"After the detained VC had been taken to 1st brigade headquarters at Camp Radcliff, the platoon continued its mission a little more aware that cigarette smoking may be hazardous to one's health.

House Razed By Fire, Arson Case

WARDELL — Pemiscot County law officers are investigating another case of arson in the county, following a fire in Wardell Sunday night which destroyed a recently-vacated house.

The Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department said the fire was definitely arson, adding that a couple of cans of kerosene - like substance was found in he burning building. The house, owned by Clem Musgraves of Wardell, had been vacated only two days previous to the fire. No arrests have been made and an estimate of the house's value was not available.

Last week, Clyde's Lounge and Restaurant, located outside of Caruthersville, was damaged by arsonists, causing an estimated $60,000 to $65,000 worth of damages to the $135,000 building's interior. The restaurant, owned by Pemiscot County Sheriff Clyde Orton, was to have opened this week. Today, Pemiscot County officials, assisted by a team of investigators, continued studying the case. No arrests have been made, and no further clues have been obtained, the sheriff's department said.

AT&T Slates Long Distance Rate Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission said Wednesday the American Telphone & Telegraph Co. will reduce long distance elephone rates about $150 million a year.

The FCC said the proposed reductions are being submitted by the company shortly in connection with a comprehensive review recently completed by the FCC of the Bell System's operations and earnings requirements.

The new rate reductions for interstate telephone calls is in addition to reductions of about $87 million which AT&T previously agreed to file.

The $87 million represents an offset to increases in revenue resulting from higher rates recently filed for program transmission, Telpak and teletypewriter exchange services.

The FCC said it anticipates that the new rates will permit the Bell System companies to achieve earnings in the range needed to attract capital under current conditions.

The FCC said the proposed reductions take into account increases in AT&T's cost of capital but recognize that the growth in interstate communications traffic is continuing unabated and that the average revenue per message has shown a steady increase.

Housewife Asks 10,000 Signers To Back Nixon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A young St. Louis county housewife who "didn't even vote for Nixon" has mustered a campaign to collect 10,000 signatures to show support for the President's Vietnam policies.

Mrs. Arlen F. Leber of suburban Creve Coeur said today hundreds of petitions have been mailed out in Missouri and Illinois asserting the signers represent "the vast, often silent majority of Americans."

Mrs. Leber said she is in favor of peaceful dissent such as the recent moratorium day but says she feels the enemy in Vietnam may not understand the political system and misjudge the true situation in the United States.

"We all want peace, but it's just not that simple to leave Vietnam. There are a lot of entanglements most of us don't even know about," she said.

Mrs. Leber has about 10 other housewives helping and intends to mail the signatures to President Nixon. She said another reason for the campaign was she feels "the morale is so bad" among American soldiers in Vietnam.

"They're going on the battlefield and being shot at and are thinking 'what's it all worth" she said.

Victim of Stabbing Will Not Prosecute

WARDELL — A 56- year - old Negro man- who told Hayti hospital officials he was stabbed by his girlfriend- informed the Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department he did not wish to prosecute the woman.

Hooper Taylor, radio dispatcher for the sheriff's department, said they were notified of the stabbing Sunday at 7:30 p.m. by the Pemiscot Memorial Hospital, who said Joseph Smith of Wardell had been admitted and treated for minor stab wounds.

Hospital officials quoted Smith as saying he had been stabbed by Annie Lee McIntire, 45, of Hayti. Smith was released today from the hospital, and the sheriff's department said the case was being dropped.

Hanoi Told U.S. Will Not Bow to Minority Acts

PARIS (AP) — The United States told Hanoi and the Viet Cong today the U.S. position in Paris will not crumble "because of the words or actions of a vocal minority of the American public."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge also declared: "You must not rely on our making concession after concession until you get everything you want."

Speaking at the 41st plenary session of the Vietnam peace talks, Lodge said: "We have recognized that your side was capable of blocking all attempts to bring an end to the war through negotiations. President Nixon, therefore, put into effect another plan. This is a plan which will bring the war to an end regardless of what happens on the negotiating front."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates denounced the Nixon speech as "continuation and intensification of the U.S. war of aggression."

Lodge said Nixon made it clear that the United States will search for a just peace "through a negotiated settlement if possible, or through continued implementation of our plan for Vietnamization if necessary."

Hanoi Reply to Nixon Repeats Old Demands

HONG KONG (AP) - North Vietnam today "officially answered" President Nixon's Vietnam policy speed with renewed demands that he unconditionally withdraw all U. S. troops from Vietnam and abandon all support of the South Vietnamese government,

Unless and until those two conditions are met, there can be no end to the Vietnam war, the Hanoi government said in what Radio Hanoi described as "the official government statement answering Nixon's Nov. 3 speech."

Broadcast in Vietnamese, the statement called on the governments and peoples of Communist nations to increase aid and support to the Viet Cong "in defeating the United States and overthrowing the Saigon traitors."

Hanoi called also on the American people to "condemn and demand an immediate end of Nixon's vicious plan to prolong the war through the use of Vietnamese to kill Vietnamese for the benefit of U. S. imperialistic aggression."

Tax Rate Increases In New Madrid

NEW MADRID — Even though the total county tax rates remain the same as for 1968, some 19,126 tax statements mailed to property owners by Wm. H. Deane, Jr., the county collector are expected to siphon off two and a half million dollars from such property owners for taxes due the state, county and other county taxing agencies.

According to Jesse H. Wilkins, county clerk, the tax charge was up by 7 per cent from the prior year, or by $164,525.44. Wilkins says the largest tax bill in the county still goes to Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., whose tax amounts to $222,806.04.

The valuations were up by 3.4 per cent even though 4,400 acres of real estate values were removed from the tax rolls for the St. Jude industrial park owned by the City of New Madrid. The values for the tax books include $39,942,583 for real estate, $6,699,753 for the personal tax book, $1,091,631 for merchants and manufacturers, and $12,402,462 for railroads and utilities, for a total current valuation of $60,136,429, as compared to $58,143,313 for the prior year. This reflects an increase of $1,993,116.

The tax rates remain the same with the exception of county revenue and Johnson gross control. County revenue rates were increased from 48 cents to 50 cents, and the Johnson grass control carrying a 2 cent rate for the prior year was eliminated since they had sufficient funds on which to operate. Other rates include state 3 cents; library 10 cents; health center 10 cents, roads 25 cents; and the school rates vary slightly.

Of the total $2,495,076.51 in taxes levied by the county, state nd other county taxing agencies, the following agencies will receive the following amounts, with the percentage of total taxes in brackets;

State, $17,995.73 (½ percent); county revenue, $300,670.86 (12 percent); library, $56,923.34 (2½ percent); health center, $60,124.85 (2½ percent); roads, $150,292.24 (6 percent); various cities; (on railroad and utility book only) $33,775.87 (1½ percent; and schools $1,864,393.62. (75 percent).

An additional $10,900.00 was levied for the county drainage districts, the identical amounts as for 1968, excepting an item for drainage district 29, which was removed to a circuit court district.

Draft Reform Log Jam May Be Near End

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate log jam holding up President Nixon's draft-by-lottery bill appears to have been broken in a compromise that may bring both immediate and future reform of the Selective Service System.

The lottery measure after passing the House last week had faced long Senate delay because of demands for more comprehensive draft reform than the single, one-line change in present law proposed by the President.

Assistant Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy, an advocate of widespread Selective Service overhaul, told the Senate late Wednesday he will introduce an amendment allowing the lottery provision to be voted on quickly.

Inquest Held up Pending Autopsy

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Edgartown District Court Judge James A. Boyle refused today to set a date for the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne until a decision is made in Pennsylvania on exhuming Miss Kopechne's body for an autopsy.

The judge's decision was announced by Court Clerk Thomas A. Teller after a closed-door meeting between Boyle and 12 attorneys involved in the case.

The meeting lasted an hour and 50 minutes, and when it was over neither Boyle nor any of the attorneys would talk with newsmen.

Teller's brief statement did not elaborate.

Miss Kopechne was found dead July 19 in a car owned by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy that had plunged off a bridge on nearby Chappaquiddick Island. A medical examiner ruled her death a drowning, but the body was buried in Pennsylvania wihout an autopsy.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, in whose jurisdiction the accident occurred, went to court in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in an attempt to secure an autopsy.

Judge Bernard Brominski held back judgment on the autopsy request Oct. 21 after a two-day hearing.

Brominski was not available immediately for comment on Boyle's decision. He has given no indication yet on when he will rule on the autopsy request, but has said that the parties involved would be given 24 hours' advance notice.

Boyle had been expected to set a date for the inquest after today's session.

There was no announcement on precisely what was discussed at the session, but presumably it involved a recent ruling on the case by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The state's high court has ordered that the inquest be closed to the public and press and that witnesses be permitted to have attorneys accompany them. The court refused them the privilege of cross-examination, however.

The inquest is to determine the cause of Miss Kopechne's death. A medical examiner ruled she died of drowning, but no autopsy was performed.

Apollo 12 Countdown Opens Friday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency today decided to start the Apollo 12 countdown at noon Friday, 31 hours early, to avoid some weekend overtime pay.

The launch time for man's second moon landing flight remains the same—11:22 a.m. EST Nov. 14.

The original plan was to start the clock at the 98-hour mark at 7 p.m. Saturday. Now it will begin Friday and the first 14 hours will be ticked off, with a 31-hour hold slated to start at 2 a.m. Saturday.

The launch crew will resume the count at 9 a.m. Sunday at the 84-hour point. Several more built-in holds totaling 38 hours 22 minutes are planned to handle any difficulties that might arise and to provide the crew with terest.

A NASA spokesman said the shift in the countdown schedule would save considerable overtime pay, especially during precount preparations Saturday. There was no estimate of the saving.

Pentagon Maps Plan to Deal With Disorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it has started "precautionary planning" to deal with possible disorders when antiwar groups stage a "march against death" through the capital next week.

It reported a total of 28,000 soldiers and Marines are available in the general Washington area, if needed. About 10,000 of these troops are in organized units and many have riot control training.

Unlike the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium, government leaders believe more militants will be involved this time and may attempt confrontations with authorities.

However, demonstration leaders have said repeatedly the protests will be peaceful. Earlier this week protest organizers disavowed any connection with a proposed demonstration by the Youth International party—Yippies—one of the more radical groups.

The government fears of violence center on a proposed Nov. 15 mass march along Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol past the White House to a rally near the Washington Monument.

Goldwater Says Firm Line May Hike Agnew Presidential Stock

HONOLULU (AP) — If Vice President Spiro T. Agnew keeps up his criticism of antiwar demonstrators "he may find himself being boomed for president before it's even his turn," Sen. Barry Goldwater said today.

In his prepared keynote address to the Western States Republican Conference, the unsuccessful 1964 GOP presidential candidate said Agnew's strong attacks on the peace movement leaders express "the sentiment of the vast, overwhelming majority of the American people."

Goldwater said the vice president was "accurate and penetrating" in calling the antiwar demonstration leaders "impudent snobs" and should be praised, not vilified.

"The vice president's crime, it seems, was to describe an effete corps of impudent snobs as 'an effete corps of impudent snobs,'" Goldwater said.

"When a liberal makes any kind of outlandish charge against his nation or his President, it is taken as a proper exercise in the right of free speech and a legitimate expression of political dissent," he said.

"However, if a conservative or a supporter of the Nixon administration vigorously attacks an activity which is undermining an American military effort, he automatically becomes 'irresponsible' and 'intemperate' in the view of the leftist media," he added.

Goldwater spoke of an Agnew for President boom in the last paragraph of a speech in which he called for Republicans to unite behind President Nixon and the Republican administration's Vietnam policy.

He also had his own characterization of participants in antiwar demonstrations:

"Many of them are concerned, warm-hearted but, I believe, misguided Americans who sincerely want an end to the war and bloodshed in Southeast Asia.

"A few, I suspect, are very sick people. Their ailment can be described as 'delerium treason.'"

He said critics of President Nixon's policy may be pressing their luck.

"I believe they may well discover in weeks to come that there is one thing the American people resent much more than the Vietnam war and that is the disruption of schools and public demonstrations which inconvenience many citizens and play into the hands of those persons whose business it is to kill American fighting men."

Allied Camps Stormed

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops stormed a South Vietnamese navy task force headquarters in the Mekong Delta today and blasted their way into two American infantry camps in the central highlands, killing 36 allied troops and wounding 125.

Allied headquarters said 105 North Vietnamese were killed in the three attacks, which dealt allied forces one of their heaviest day's losses this year.

The South Vietnamese suffered the most, losing 25 per cent of the 500 marines and navy men at the amphibious task force headquarters in the Mekong Delta 138 miles southwest of Saigon. A spokesman said 27 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 98 wounded in the night-long attack by 500 North Vietnamese soldiers.

The South Vietnamese defenders said they killed 75 of the enemy, and that 56 enemy bodies were found along the camp's barbed wire perimeter.

Nine Americans were killed and 27 wounded in the two attacks on troops of the 4th Infantry Division in the highlands near the provincial capitals of Pleiku and Kontum. The U.S. Command said the American troops killed 30 North Vietnamese, many of them sappers hurling dynamite bombs into bunkers.

It was the third straight day of heavy fighting after a nineweek lull in the Vietnam war. The increase in enemy assaults are certain to send American casualties soaring upward, a factor which President Nixon said in his Vietnam war speech Monday could slow his timetable for withdrawal of U.S. troops.

This week's totals will be announced next Thursday.

The allied commands reported today that combat casualties slacked off on all sides last week, with 82 Americans, 245 South Vietnamese government troops and 1,879 enemy killed in action.

The week before the totals of battlefield dead reported were 102 Americans, 297 South Vietnamese and 2,303 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The weekly casualty report raised the number of Americans reported killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 39,232 and the reported enemy total in that period to 566,501.

The U.S. Command said 724 Americans were wounded last week, increasing the total since Jan. 1, 1961, to 257,509.

The drop in casualty figures last week reflected the nineweek lull in the war, although it ended Saturday with a flareup in the central highlands. Fighting in this and other areas north of Saigon continued through Tuesday and a U.S. military source said the number of Americans killed in action this week—which will be announced next Thursday—may jump back above 100 for the second time in seven weeks.

A U.S. spokesman announced today that three American GIs released by the Viet Cong after months of captivity in jungle camps will fly to the United States Saturday to rejoin their families.

An Army spokesman said initial tests to determine if the three had caught malaria proved negative, and the way was cleared for their return home.

The freed POWs—Spec. 4 Willie A. Watkins of Sumter, S.C., Spec. 4 James R. Strickland of Dunn, N.C., and Pfc. Coy R. Tinsley of Cleveland, Tenn.—all said they had received "good treatment" from the Viet Cong, Army sources reported.

All three are 22 years old

'Flatfoot' Beats to Return

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The cop on the beat, the reviled and revered "flatfoot" of yesteryear, will again become a familiar sight in two of the city's heavily populated high-crime areas.

Col. James L. Sanders, chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners, announced Wednesday that foot patrols will be started in the Pruitt - Igoe public housing project area and the Page Boulevard Police District.

Under the pilot program, officers will work in pairs, maintaining communication with patrol cars in the area and the department dispatcher by radio.

Sanders said the walking beats would be assigned only during night hours initially.

Blackwell Accused of Fund Use

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) - State Representative Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, today charged that Senator Earl Blackwell is using state facilities, state funds and state employes to carry on his campaign for a referendum vote on the Missouri income tax increase.

Volkmer, in a statement, said Blackwell is using his senate office in the Capital as headquarters for the drive; used 21 employes and a private secretary on the state payroll for work on the correspondence and mailings of the campaign, and mailed "thousands of pieces of mail in the campaign" under a postage meter charged to the Missouri Senate.

Volkmer concluded that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money is being used to conduct the referendum campaign.

Car, School Bus Collide

A collision at a street intersection in Vanduser Wednesday at 8:35 a.m., sent Mary Thompson, 38, Vanduser, to Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for face cuts. Several teeth were knocked out, the state patrol reported.

She was driving a 1964 Mustang, when a 1969 Ford school bus, driven by Norma Lorene Deal, 27, Sikeston, came into the intersection, and was struck in the side by the Mustang.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
ONE SOLITARY LIFE

He was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in still another village, where he worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty. Then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family or owned a house. He didn't go to college. He never visited a big city.

He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He did none of the things one usually associates with greatness. He had no credentials but himself. He was only thirty-three when the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away.

He was turned over to his enemies and went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled for his clothing, the only property he had on earth. When he was dead, he was laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race and the leader of mankind's progress. All the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever sailed, all the parliaments that ever sat, all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have not affected the life of man on this earth as much as that

One Solitary Life.

USE OF X FOR CHRISTMAS

Practically every year from this time on, the question comes up again -- who put the "X" in Christmas, and decries such an Unchristian approach to an otherwise solemn occasion. A reader again wants to know how come this slip from the full designation Christmas.

Actually, it's been there all the time, according to World Book Encyclopedia which says, "X, used alone or in combination with other letters, often stands for the word Christ"; and an Episcopalian priest, The Rev. Eric G. Gration, explains: "This usage is quite ancient -- as ancient certainly as the term 'Christmas' itself. It derives from the early (1st Century) use of the first letter of the name 'Christ' in Greek -- the Greek letter "Chi', written as 'X' . . . The use of X for Christ ties in also with the equally ancient XP (Chi Ro, the equivalent in Greek of our 'Chr') as a symbol for Christ and also with the symbols 'IXS' -- Iota Chi Sigma -- the first letters of Ieosous Christos Soter in Greek; Jesus Christ Savior in English."

One might as justifiably fret over who consolidated the phrase "Holy day" (from the Anglo - Saxon Halig daeg) into "holiday". Or, for that matter, who reduced the early English phrase "Christes Masse" (Christ's Mass) to Christmas.

All in all, it isn't so much how you spell it as how you keep it that determines how blessed will be the joyous season just ahead. - Jackson (Miss.) Clarion - Ledger and Daily News

PROCEED, MR. AGNEW

Vice President Spiro Agnew has drawn down on his head of fury of the left-wing in the Congress and the press for his denunciation of the leaders of the October 15th "Moratorium".

The shrill criticism seems to center primarily on the charge that Vice President Agnew attacked the Moratorium leaders as "an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals." In the interest of fairness, we believe that this quote should be evaluated in the context of the speech given by Mr. Agnew in New Orleans.

The Vice President said: "Education is being redefined at the demand of the uneducated to suit the ideas of the uneducated. The student now goes to college to proclaim rather than to learn. The lessons of the past are ignored and obliterated in a contemporary antagonism known as the generation gap. A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals.

"It is in this setting of dangerous oversimplification that the war in Vietnam achieves its greatest distortion.

"The recent Vietnam Moratorium is a reflection of the confusion that exists in America today. Thousands of well motivated young people, conditioned since childhood to respond to great emotional appeals, saw fit to demonstrate for peace. Most did not stop to consider that the leaders of the Moratorium had billed it as amassive public outpouring of sentiment against the foreign policy of the President of the United States. Most did not care to be reminded that the leaders of the Moratorium refused to disassociate themselves from the objective enunciated by the enemy in Hanoi."

Upon reading the full text of Mr. Agnew's speech, it is obvious that a deliberate attempt to distort the true meaning of his words has been made by individuals whose reasoning, as well as their identity, is obscure. But the most cogent evidence of the legitimacy of Mr. Agnew's remarks was provided by the avowed enemies of the United States. In an open letter to the Moratorium agitators, North Vietnamese Communist Premier Pham Van Dong saluted them as his "Dear American Friends".

Just a few weeks ago we were wondering "Where is Agnew?" Now we know and we're glad to have found him.

HOW SOME UNIONS ARE "HELPING" SOLVE THE HOUSING SHORTAGE FOR THE POOR

Corporations, churches, civic groups are striving to replace slum hovels with decent modern housing but it is taking too long and costs too much. Two words explain much of the reason: union rules.

Work takes too long because there aren't enough skilled workers, and that's because unions won't allow enough apprentices to build up the ranks of the skilled.

Prefabricated floors, walls, windows, doors, plumbing, wiring would speed work, cut costs, often improve quality. But many unions won't allow them - work has to be done slowly, expensively, on each job. Or the pre-fab part has to be taken apart and put together again!

Honest unions encourage and foster skills, but rules like these by some misguided unions are dangerously delaying work that is desperately needed.

And meanwhile slums (and people) rot.

Don't equal opportunity laws apply to all unions, too?

MANY tricks are used to prevent callers at business offices from outstaying their welcome. A high Government executive, although occupying a large room, has only one chair in his office. When a visitor enters, he rises and remains on his feet as long as the visitor stays.

Another method is to furnish uncomfortable chairs for visitors. One man not only asks his visitor to sit in an uncomfortable chair but the visitor also discovers that the chair is nailed to the floor at a distance of five feet from the host.

When John Wanamaker was Postmaster General his handshake became famous in Washington. Others tried to imitate it but regretted the attempt. 'The way he received every one,' said an official of the time, 'was most satisfactory, but the thing that delighted me was the beautiful manner in which he got rid of a visitor. His farewell handshake was courtesy and geniality itself, at the same time it was a gentle push toward the door. It was done in such a manner that nobody could possibly take exception to it.'

NEW YORK (AP) — Experience is said to be the best teacher. But it can also be a costly and even fatal teacher. The lessons from some experiences are too expensive for us to afford.

The better part of wisdom sometimes is to avoid the experience and therefore the need of having to learn the bitter lesson. This requires the development of a sturdy ability to say no at the right time.

For example, here are a few invitations which, if accepted, generally lead only to disaster or regret:

"If the liquor is all gone, why don't we just all drive over to my place for an early breakfast?"

"This looks like it may be a short cut down the mountain. Why don't we follow it and save time?"

"When we get to the supermarket, dear, you hold a place for me in the checkout line while I pick up the items we need. I'm sure the others won't mind."

"I've never been up in a small airplane like this before. May I steer it for a while just to see what it's like?"

"Don't you think it would give it a little more flavor if you chopped up another clove or two of garlic and tossed them in?"

"If you liked those slides we took in Venice last year, how about dropping by tomorrow night and we'll show you the ones we took the year before on our visit through Arizona's deserts? We've got some closeups of a scorpion that are real corkers."

"Since you say you'd rather sit in the front of the canoe, why don't we change places right now before these rapids get any worse?"

"If you think a housewife has it so easy, why don't you stay home for a day and do my work, and I'll go to the office and do yours?"

"Just what is all this fuss about a generation gap, son? You're not one of those smart aleck kids who blame their parents for everything that's wrong with the world, are you?"

"Yes, believe it or not, at my age I've started taking dancing lessons. Shall I show you a few new steps?"

"Would you like to hear the details of my new diet?"

"Well, if you don't like the income tax return I filed, why don't you try to make a federal case out of it?"

"Is there anything else I can do to make your life happier, boss?"

See by the papers the Nixon aministration is asking for suggestions on how to keep em down on the farm and out of the cities where it costs taxpayers 300 to 500% more to keep em. It's all very simple, put some old fashioned farmer in charge who knows how they done it before autos chain Stores and Bonds took over little farmes raised what they eat, and eat what they raised and the kids walked to school each morning before books the teacher read a passage of scripture kids and all joined in singing . Then a prayer. Children was taught to be there brothers keeper. There was always plenty of exercise on the farm so's when darkness settled over the farm they was ready and willing to go to bed for a good nights sleep and rest instead of heading for a Pot Party. Farmers had a loose co-op where they swapped work in times of wheat threshing hog-killing and barnraising they usually planted at least five acres of wheat hauled it to the local mill at harvest, deposited sufficient to make flour to last till next harvest,. The miller charged 20% or 12 pounds of wheat for his service and grinding giving the farmer a due-bill. when the little woman gave the word he would hitch up to the wagon or buggy at the mill he presented his due-bill for the amout of flour the cook prescribed and sold the surplus wheat to the miller. meal was acqired in the same way at the big mill or at a small mill powerd by a wood fired steam engine where the farmer exchanged a bushel of shelled corn 56 pounds for a vushel of meal 48 pounds Question will little leadowners who sold to big land owners and took off for the city looking for a job come back to that or come to greif? U.S. CONCESSIONS IN VIETNAM

Farleft leaders in the United States blame our country for prolonging the war in Vietnam. Yet since negotiations began in Paris, all the concessions have been made by our country.

Since October of 1968, our government has halted all bombing of North Vietnam and has begun to withdraw combat troops, promising additional withdrawals in the future. Our negotiators have offered to allow the Vietcong to participate in elections in South Vietnam, a giant step toward a coalition government.

North Vietnam, on the other hand, has shelled many South Vietnamese cities, killing countless civilians, has constantly violated the Demilitarized Zone, refused to negotiate with the Saigon government, continued acts of terrorism and sabotage, and flatly refused to allow Red Cross inspection of communist prisoner of war camps or even to release the names of prisoners still alive.

Clearly Hanoi is not interested in making any concessions or compromises as long as our government continues to do so. The communists do not want to settle for anything less than total victory.

Senator John Tower of Texas recently stated on the floor of the Senate: "I believe it is time the Hanoi regime realized that it has extracted from the United States all the concessions to the communists that can be obtained from us, and that now it is their turn to settle down to serious and meaningful negotiations."

Senator John Tower of Texas recently stated on the floor of the Senate: "I believe it is time the Hanoi regime realized that it has extracted from the United States all the concessions to the communists that can be obtained from us, and that now it is their turn to settle down to serious and meaningful negotiations."

The State Department should heed Senator Tower's words and stop making concessions to the communists. Those already made have cost the lives of many U.S. troops and South vietnamese civilians, to no avail. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--This column has turned over to the Justice Department evidence that Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., tried to keep two Mafia couriers out of the clutches of the Selective Service and the U.S. Army. He intervened at the urging of Bernard J. Semel, a fireworks magnate bankrolled by the Mafia.

Even more astonishing, the affable Giaimo keeps up a lively personal friendship with a notorious New England organized crime figure named Paul Coppola. Until recently, they were business partners in a New London, Conn., apartment house.

Under the protective cloak of a federal grand jury subpoena, one of the couriers, James Piccolo, is now telling government lawmen how he used to deliver cash across state lines for the Mafia. He has also sworn that his brother, Anthony, is still running errands for the dreaded underworld society.

In 1965, the Connecticut Congressman kept James Piccolo out of the draft for six months and, in 1968, wangled an early Army discharge for Anthony. Congressmen usually don't intercede with government agencies for people outside their district, yet neither of the Mafia runners has ever lived in Connecticut.

Leslie Whitten of my staff has questioned James Piccolo at length. We have checked out his story as far as possible and have found the details to be accurate. The Justice Department is also using his sworn statements in its crackdown upon organized crime.

--NO QUESTIONS ASKED--

Piccolo has identified the Congressman's friend, Paul Coppola, as an underworld "Shylock" who loans money with no questions asked but collects his pound of flesh from borrowers who can't pay.

In the illicit loan shark business, the victims often are respectable people caught in a financial snare and desperate for quick cash. Mafia money is the easiest to borrow and the hardest to repay. It is passed under the table without any legal formalities. But the borrower mortgages not only his holdings but his health.

The reckoning--and awakening--comes later when he finds it takes most of his weekly payments just to keep up with the interest rates, which run as steep as 20 per cent a week. This is called "juice" in underworld parlance, and it is extracted without mercy from the luckless borrowers. For those who miss a payment or complain, a brutal beating is routine.

"Bernie" Semel, father of the plastic cherry bomb, fell into the toils of the Mafia moneylenders. He tried to patent his dangerous invention in 1961. His application was disapproved, but Semel went into production anyway.

For capital, he borrowed money at Shylock rates from Coppola in Connecticut and from Charles "Fuffi" Rivezzo in New York City. The latter has been identified as an underling of Cormine "The Doctor" Lombardozzi, a nororious Mafia nobster. Coppola "guaranteed" epayment of Semel's loans to he New York Mafia, according o Piccolo, who carried the cash o Semel and delivered the nterest payments back to Coppola and Rivezzo.

--COLD CASH--

Once, Piccolo hid $17,000 in underworld loans in an aluminum foil wrap in his freezer for safekeeping over a weekend. Another time, the Mafia sent a 320-pound thug named "George" to encourage Semel to come up with a $30,000 payment.

George's orders: If Semel didn't produce the money within a week, break one of his arms. On the next day, if no money, break the other arm. Semel borrowed enough from customers and others to meet the deadline.

He got so deeply in hock to the mobsters, however, that they took over control of his fireworks firm. Both Piccolo brothers helped load trucks in Baltimore for Mafia men taking firewords illegally to New York, Illinois and other states where sales are restricted or banned.

Coppola and Semel are strange friends, indeed, for a Congressman who helps write the nation's laws. For both men, as well as Rivezzo, have been convicted of law violations.

Rep. Giaimo, a towering, darkly handsome man of 50, acknowledged to us that he knew Coppola was a gambler and had heard he was a Shylock. Giaimo didn't believe, however, that his friend was linked to the Mafia.

--STRANGE FRIENDSHIP--

The two men often used to meet at the gambler's restaurant, "Papa Coppola's," a pleasant hangout for politicians, lawyers and sporting men in New Haven, Conn. Occasionally, Giaimo also cruised on Coppola's ocean-going yacht and was a guest in his luxurious New Haven home.

The legislator has kept up this relationship during the ll years he has served in Congress--a friendship that "Paulie," as Giaimo speaks of Coppola, likes to boast about.

When Coppola wanted a real estate lawyer, he went to Sachs, Giaimo, Sachs and Sachs. The Congressman, though no longer a partner, is still connected with the firm. Giaimo also invested $1,500 in a New London apartment house, in which Coppola held a 30 per cent interest.

When the Internal Revenue Service dunned Coppola for $9,400 in 1959 taxes, the Giaimo firm got the case. IRS followed up with criminal charges that he evaded some $37,000 taxes in 1961 and 1962. The Justice Department sent Reginald Gibson, a crack Negro attorney, to New Haven to prosecute the case. He described it in court as part of the Justice Department's crackdown on organized crime.

The government eventually dropped one charge, although it had 250 witnesses on tap, and Coppola pleaded guilty to a $15,000 evasion. He drew tow years but is free pending a "jurisdictional" appeal.

Copola's lawyers scoff at talk he is a Mafia man, although a Justice Department spokesman told us Coppola is "very high up" in Connecticut organized crime.

Giaimo, while insisting he did nothing for Coppola in the criminal proceddings and has received nothing from his except possibly a few small campaign contributions, declared loyally: "He's a good friend. He's a good guy."

Note: The Congressman's relationship with Semel, the cherry bomb king, will be discussed in a future column.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor's New Nixon: Home Front War And-- Peace in the Cabinet Room

Washington, D.C.: --some years ago at lunch a newsman turned to Richard Nixon and queried: "Dick, why aren't you as outgoing in public as you've been these few hours?" The attorney-at-law looked aroung the table, laughed heartily and retorted:

"I just don't know. I guess if I could I would have been president."

Political fortunes change. But images really don't. It may be "the tube." It may be the tension. But the new Nixon is the old Nixon and the old Nixon still is the relaxed realist when you get in close--as did the nation's labor leaders the other morning. Very little of the story began at 10 a.m., Oct. 29, has been told--though it's the first, and probably the last, time many of labor's high command will sit in the White House Cabinet Room with the man they will try to turn into a one-term president.

There is historic significance to this gathering of the President and the nation's 33 top labor leaders. They are at war. They will remain at war. But they made their peace and never again, it seems to me, will American labor berate him as a latter-day political Genghis Khan. For they did not find him revanchist, pedantic, uneady of laughter, nor unwilling to tell them like it is.

And utterly significant, too, is the fact that many left the room feeling that they could easily back him for re-election should the Democratic Party be remade by the new "reformists" who now antedate even Gene McCarthy.

First, they know that President Nixon did give them one of the strongest allies, one of the friendliest Secretaries of Labor they've had. The President himself said that George Shultz is the most "eloquent spokesman" they've had in the Labor Dept. chair since the late James Mitchell, who they once dubbed the "best Secretary of Labor" ever appointed.

The morning had started with a private breakfast during which AFL-CIO President George Meany took sharp issue with Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (now striking General Electric corp.), who had called for Prof. Shultz's resignation.

Mr. Meany said that Secretary Shultz was one of the best friends they had--certainly in this administration. Then labor's chief went over to the White House for a private half-hour talk with President Nixon and George Shultz in the Oval Room. They walked into the Cabinet Room. Mr. Shultz, spying Paul Jennings, put out his hand, grinned and said something like--"don't get me fired, I like my job and we're still friends, aren't we?" Strike leader Jennings shook hands and the President chuckled, saying: "Are you two going to square off?"

Then they shook hands all around as George Meany did the introductions. When the President and the AFL-CIO prexy came to the aging vice president, the revered black leader, A. Philip Randolph, Mr. Meany said, "and here is another grand old man." The reference was to himself-- recognition that he's heading for 76 though he can outmatch most of the Cabinet and the President on the links.

When all were seated, Communication Workers of America(CWA) President Joe Beirne bellied up too close to the table, and tore his trouser leg on a tack. He pulled it out, and made a historical note of the fact that "On the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 29, Joe Beirne tore his pants while sitting in the seat of the Secretary of Interior."

The CWA leader offered the note for the archives. President Nixon laughed with the others, but decided to forgo the mini-manuscript. Thus it went. At one point after Mr. Nixon signed the Executive Federal Labor Relations Council order he helped George Meany steal pens. Coffee was served. Mr. Meany puffed on his big black cigar, in which there most positively was no Havana tobacco. National Maritime Union President Joe Curran talked of a bigger merchant fleet and Mr. Nixon said it seemed to hem its funds had just been beefed up by hundreds of millions. And when Mr. Curran said, that was all right for a starter, Mr. Nixon said,"I know you want more and more." "More", or course, is the AFL-CIO war cry.

There were some words--and some laughter--when labor's lone banker, Jack Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (ACWA), owner of the Amalgamated Bank, protested against the high cost of money. But Mr. Potofsky said his band refuses to charge the highest interest. There were polite words between the President and the Ladies' Garment Workers Union President Lou Stulberg, though both of them knew that Mr. Stulberg has a bery distinct and often pronounced allergy towards Republicans.

but it was all evidential of the "very proper" relationship which will be the rule of the political game from now on. The President knew they would not react favorably to his plea for wage restraint. He could have guessed it. But there was no necessity. He had on his desk a letter from President Meany, mailed on the 27th, rebuffing him, denying that wages were too high and blaming commerce and industry's profits and prices for inflation. Mr. Meany also made it evident that the fight for wage increase would continue.

Evidence lies in labor's decision for final conflict with General Electric. The President had told them that he would be neutral in this strike. This was reported here earlier. But what was nor reported is the fact that Mr. Nixon sais he would intervene if he were asked. No one has asked him.

Instead, the AFL-CIO committee of three, the longshoremen's Teddy Gleason, the electrical workers' Joe Keenan and the steelworkers' I.W. Abel, with Mr. Meany and Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland as ex-officio members--has decided to raise some $15 million for the battle against the nation's fourth biggest corporation.

A year ago, Mr. Nixon would have been denounced as the advance man for Attila the Hun. But not now. They met. They got to know each other. There was no tube between them. They are still at war. But in a more peaceful fashion.

To Wives of Drunks... Try, Then Throw Him Out

Dear Ann Landers: I am fed up with your advice to wives of alcoholics that goes like this: "Have a little compassion. The man is sick. Alcoholism is an illness. Etc., etc., etc."

It's apparent that you have had no experience with alcoholism. Well, I have, so please listen. After 38 years of hauling my drunken bum out of hotels, motels, jails, hospitals and other women's bedrooms, I resent being told I lack compassion. If you think I'm hard-hearted, wait until you read the rest of this letter.

Three weeks ago I received a call from the police. They asked me to come to the morgue and identify a man they believed to be my husband. I recognized him immediately since he was in a prone position, which is the way I saw him most of his life.

I had tried kindness and compassion. It didn't work. I begged him to go to A.A. and even offered to go with him. He refused. He wouldn't see a counselor or a clergyman because they were all "fakes." He was no father, no husband, no provider, no human being. It took 38 years to figure out that compassion was not the answer. If I had it to do over I'd have thrown him out and let the sot sink or swim.---TELLING IT LIKE IT IS AND WISH YOU'D DO THE SAME.

Dear Telling It: You have a valid point and I would not deny it. Not all approaches work for all people. Authorities have been rethinking the techniques for treating alcoholics since since alcoholism has assumed epidemic proportions in this country. Many distinguished authorities now say that love and compassion fail, the alcoholic who refuses to accept counseling or medication, should be thrown out. They now believe that some drunks will straighten themselves out only when it is made abundantly clear that they are responsible for themselves--that no one will provide them with room and board, coddle them, clean up after them or make excuses for them to family, friends and the boss. So, the advice is now as follows: When love and compassion fail, throw the bum out.

Dear Ann Landers: There must be other women who get the silent treatment from their husbands. Why? Don't tell me some men are just naturally quiet. My husband, who is a physician, is considered brilliant and outgoing by everyone who knows him. Whenever we attend a medical meeting Ed just about takes over. He is on his feet challenging, presenting his views, and he asks more questions than anybody. The chairmen always have a problem shutting him up. When we have company, Ed talks a blue streak. Yet, when the two of us are alone, he can't think of a single thing to talk about. If he didn't enjoy my company, why did he marry me?---Ignored Wife

Dear Wife: Obviously he didn't marry you because you were a great converstaionalist. It must have been something else. Search your memory and maybe you'll come up with the answer.

Confidential to Impaled On The Horns Of A Dilemma: This is the original Do-It- Yourself project. No one can decide for you. My personal opinion, however, is that you'd be better off to pass up the one with "that certain something" and take the one who has something certain.

Student Teachers Must be Versatile

Student teachers must be versatile. There is now no doubt in Susan Kollmeyer's mind. She has just completed her student teaching period with Mrs. Dorothy James in Sikeston Middle School's home economics department.

Miss Kollmeyer, a native of Farmington, says she thinks the Middle School's program of interest activities is a good idea for this age level. It gives the students a chance to find out their interests lie, and just what they do like.

Interest activities, new to this student teacher, is also new to many parents of Middle School students. One hour of each Wednesday afternoon is given to the students, who report to a classroom with a supervising teacher and work on a project which was selected at the beginning of the school year.

Miss Kollmeyer and Mrs. James are instructing their interest activities group in embroidery, basic sewing and yarn work. To explain the need for versatility, Miss Kollmeyer said she has instructed not only the stitchery work, but personal improvement, and has introduced a section on foods and meal planning.

"I have loved working with junior high students. You never know what they're going to do next. And they're not afraid to tell you what they feel or what they're thinking," Miss Kollmeyer concluded.

Jenkins presents "Julie & the Mini-Boot"
Once upon a time – in the year 1969 – there was a girl named Julie Crader who was Calendar Girl for the month of November. One day, Julie went to Jenkins Shoe Store and tried on a pair of mini-boots by TEMPOS. "They're fabulous!", she cried. "Charge it!" And Julie and her mini-boots lived happily ever after.
. . . where happily-ever-afters still happen.

A-State Ranked Fourth

Rampaging North Dakota State remained a solid favorite for the top spot, while Montana and Delaware gained ground today in the weekly Associated Press small college football poll.

The unbeaten Bison, who thundered past Northern Iowa 41-13 last weekend for their eighth straight victory, drew 10 of the 14 first-place votes and 250 points in the balloting by a panel of sports writers and broadcastes.

Montana, which nudged rival Montana State 7-6 for its eighth straight, moved up one notch to second with 209 points.

Delaware, 6-1, roared all the way from seventh to third on the strength of a 44-0 blasting of strong Rutgers, and Arkansas State, 5-1, jumped from 11th to fourth after turning back Lamar Tech 20-0.

Akron, 6-2, moved up three spots to fifth although it had trouble putting down Central Michigan 9-6.

Alcorn A&M, 5-0-1, dropped from second to sixth after a 2323 deadlock with Arkansas AM&N and New Mexico Highlands, 6-0-1, was seventh, up two spots, after a 37-0 coast past Western State of Colorado.

Louisiana Tech and Texas A&I dropped out of contention for the No. 1 spot after each suffered their first loss of the season—both by one point.

Tech, 5-1, bowed to Southern Mississippi 24-23 and slipped from fifth to eighth, while Texas A&I, 6-1, plunged from fourth to a ninth-place tie with Wittenberg after a 13-12 loss to Sull Ross State.

Wittenberg, 6-0, advanced from 15th to 10th with a 45-0 trouncing of Bucknell.

Rounding out the second 10 were No. 11 Abilene Christian, No. 12 Northern Arizona, No. 13 East Tennessee, No. 14 Western Carolina, No. 15 Colorado State College, No. 16 Sacramento State, No. 17 Humboldt State, No. 18 Indiana, Pa., No. 19 Tampa and No. 20 Indiana State.

A.L. Cy Young Award To Cuellar, McLain

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in the history of balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America a major award wound up in a tie today when Mike Cuellar of Baltimore and Denny McLain of Detroit each received 10 votes for the 1969 American League Cy Young Award.

The other votes of the 24-man committee, two from each league city, went to Jim Perry of Minnesota, who got three, and Dave McNally of Baltimore, who received one.

The Cy Young winner in the National League, announced last week, was Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, who topped both majors with 25 victories. Seaver received 23 of the 24 votes in the National League.

McLain was a unanimous winner of the award in 1968 when he won 31 games. Bob Gibson also scored a 24-0 shutout in the National in 1968.

"I'm surprised," said McLain in San Jose, Calif. "I thought sure they'd go with the pennant winner."

The award, conceived by Ford Frick, former baseball commissioner, originally went to the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues. In 1967 the writers voted to present an award to the outstanding pitcher in each league.

The closest thing to a tie came in 1958 when a 15-man committee gave Bob Turley of the New York Yankees five votes, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee four and Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, each three.

McLain, sharing the laurels, was the first American Leaguer to repeat. Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers won it three times. McLain had a 24-9 won-lost record for the Tigers and a 2.80 earned run average. His nine shutouts led the league.

Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer of the writers association, said there were no tie-breaking provisions. The secret ballot is conducted by mail with only regular season games taken into consideration. The ballots are to be mailed between the close of the regular season and the start of the playoffs.

Cuellar, a left-hander with a darting screwball pitch, came to the Orioles from Houston in a trade last winter. He helped pitch Baltimore to the pennant with a 23-11 record and a 2.38 earned run average.

Perry was Minnesota's big winner with a 20-6 record and a 2.78 earned run average. McNally was 20-7 with the Orioles and had a 3.21 earned run mark.

Pirate Announcer Switchess to Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Jim Woods, announcer for the Pittsburgh Pirates for the past 11 years, will join the St. Louis Cardinals baseball broadcasting team, Anheuser - Busch, Inc., announced Wednesday.

Woods will assist Jack Buck, who replaced Harry Caray last month as the voice of the Cardinals. Caray had broadcast Cardinal games for 25 years.

Big Weekend In Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four weekends of bitter football combat in the Big Eight Conference have served only to eliminate two teams from contention, but either Missouri or Oklahoma is expected to scuttle those calculations of a possible five - way tie Saturday.

The Tigers and Sooners, preseason favorites, could stage the most bitter battle yet this 1969 season in the Big Eight at Columbia, Mo.

The stakes will be the highest of any of the games on a docket which also includes Kansas State at Oklahoma State, Colorado at Kansas and Iowa State at Nebraska.

While Kansas State and Nebraska also have only one league loss, as do Missouri and Oklahoma, the winner of the Tiger-Sooner shootout in Missouri's Memorial Stadium should have the inside track to the championship.

Missouri plays at Iowa State, 1-3, and Kansas, 0-4, the final two weeks, while Oklahoma catches Kansas and Nebraska at home and goes to Oklahoma State in its windup.

Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, whose Buffaloes lost to Oklahoma 42-30 and defeated Missouri 31-24, had this observation:

"Oklahoma and Missouri are both superb football teams. It should be an excellent game. The team that gets the better defensive effort should win. I'd like to play Oklahoma again because you always want another shot at the one that beat you."

Oklahoma, humiliated 59-21 by Kansas State two weeks ago, rebounded sharply behind Steve Owens' punishing runs for 248 yards to crush Iowa State 37-14 last week.

Clayton's Extra Points Make Difference

Poplar Bluff's Hosie Moss has closed to within two touchdowns of tying Don Clayton of Malden for the TD lead, among SEMO Prep Gridders but is 24 points back of the Green Wave backfield star in total points as Clayton has picked up 12 points on two-point conversions and leads the district with 138 points to 114 for Moss.

Moss has scored five TD's in each of his last two games in closing the gap and has games remaining with Blytheville, Ark. and Sikeston while Clayton will run against Gideon and Dexter in his team's final.

Another Malden player is tops in scoring, that being kicking star Charlie Rogers, who's 18 PAT's is tops in the district along with South Pemiscot's Calvin Carter. Carl Gross has 17 for the best in the Northern Division.

Cards Get Culver For Washburn

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Pitchers Ray Washburn of the St. Louis Cardinals and George Culver of the Cincinnati Reds switched teams Wednesday in a player deal announced by the Cardinals.

Both Washburn and Culver are right-handers and both have pitched a no-hit game.

Washburn, 31, won three and lost eight and had a 3.07 earned run average working as a starter and reliever for the Cardinals last season. A year earlier, he had a 14-8 record and a 2.26 ERA. His four shutouts of 1968 include a 2-0 no-hitter against San Francisco.

Culver, 26, had a 5-7 record and a 4.28 ERA last season. He was on the Reds disabled list as a result of hepatitis for nearly two months.

Culver also notched his nohit game in 1968, a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia.

SEMO State Homecoming Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State College will be playing in its third Homecoming game in as many weeks when the Indians entertain Northeast Missouri State College of Kirksville at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at Houck Stadium.

In the first two Homecoming outings, the visiting Indians put a damper on the festivities by defeating the home team. Now, as the host club, they are hoping the Bulldogs of Kirksville will be unable to do the same to them.

If the weather is decent, a crowd of near 10,000 is expected for the afternoon battle which may very well decide the MIAA championship.

Both teams enter the contest with identical 3-0 conference marks. Southeast Missouri State owns the best overall record, 6-1, the Indians' only loss having been to Murray, Ky., State University. Northeast Missouri State has a 4-1-1 slate, having been beaten by one point by Eastern Illinois University of Charleston and tied 22-22 by Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo.

If Northeast Missouri State wins Saturday's game, he Bulldogs only have to defeat Northwest Missouri State College of Maryville next week to win the MIAA crown tonight. If Southeast Missouri State wins, the Bulldogs could still earn a share of the title should the Indians stumble next week in their game with Central Missouri State College of Warrensburg.

Bulldog coach Russ Sloan, in his first year at the helm, was pleased with his team's defense last week in Northeast Missouri State's 21-14 win over the University of Missouri – Rolla. He called it "our finest defensive effort this season." The defensive unit held the Miners to 28 yards on the ground and 87 through the air.

On the other hand Southeast Missouri State head coach Tom Thrower, for the first time this fall, could find nothing to praise his defensive unit for in the Indians' 33-29 victory last week over Southwest Missouri State College of Springfield. The defense allowed the winless Bears to core almost as many points as they had in six previous contests as the lead changed hands five times during the game.

Thrower, however, was more than happy with the performance of his offensive line, saying "It won the game for us." Offensive backfield star for the Indians was senior fullback Bruce Hoffman of Park Forest, Ill., who scored three touchdowns and averaged 4.5 yards per carry.

The Southeast Missouri coach was blunt about the Indians' chances this week. He said, "We are really going to have to play an excellent football game both offensively and defensively or we can't win." Thrower said the Bulldogs have the best defense in the conference, "one which keeps you in the hole," and a balanced offense, equally capable of running or passing.

Northeast Missouri State's defense is anchored by 255-pound senior tackle John Suell from St. Louis and 200- pound senior guard Frank Wagner of Oak Law, Ill. Both were all-conference choices in 1968 and Wagner, in addition, made honorable mention in one College Division All- America poll.

Offensively the Bulldogs are led by freshman Lenville Elliott, a 180- pounder from Richmond, who has rushed 128 times for 412 yards. Second leading rusher is Lloyd Wiese, a 165- pound senior from Baxter, Iowa, who has carried the ball 80 times for 277 yards.

Charles Blakley, a 165 -pound junior from St. Joseph, has rushed 26 times for 144 yards. He is also the team's leading receiver with 16 receptions for 243 yards and four touchdowns.

Northeast Missouri State quarterback Don Cummings, a 185- pound junior from Lombard, Ill., has put the ball in the air 114 times and completed 53 of the aerials for 843 yards and 10 touchdowns.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here's How to Clean Up That Rusty Old Flatiron

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Jeanette wanted to know how to improve the looks of an old flatiron. I washed my iron with a soap-and-water solution. When dry, I used a wire brush to remove the rust. A whisk broom and dry cloth removed the dust created by the brushing. I painted my iron with an antirust paint in wrought-iron black (flat black could be used) for a more "natural" appearance. I have had no recurrence of the rust.—MRS. R. S.

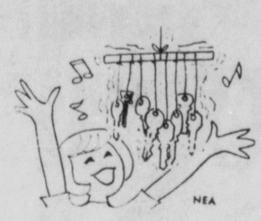
DEAR POLLY—Tell Jeanette to put black shoe polish on her old iron, take a cloth and rub it hard while the polish is still damp and the iron will look original. I do not think one should ever paint old cast iron.—MILDRED

DEAR GIRLS—After the rust is removed, stove black could be used on the iron, just as our ancestors put it on their wood-burning stoves.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know if it is possible to remove printing from Christmas cards. I have some with the wrong name printed on them and would like to make use of these cards if I can.—MRS. B. H.

DEAR POLLY—I make wind chimes out of old keys. Take pieces of string or twine about six inches long and tie them through the holes in the keys. Fasten these strings to a piece of wood or even a twig and put a string on top for hanging it. Paint the keys any desired color and they make pretty tinkling sounds.—ELAINE



DEAR POLLY—Our family recently went on an outing and took along a picnic lunch. After finishing the fried chicken, we discovered we had forgotten the wet washcloth we usually carry along in a plastic bag. Paper napkins are not sufficient to do this job. We were far from water, so my father suggested rubbing an ice cube from our ice chest between our hands and drying them with our napkins. It did the trick and there were no more greasy hands to soil clothes and car.—K. H.

Carter Sees $5.5 Million Shortage in Welfare Programs

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Proctor N. Carter, state welfare director, said Monday two welfare programs face a $5.5 million shortage in the current fiscal year.

He said both the Medicaid program for indigents and the general relief program will run out of funds in April unless an emergency appropriation is made available.

The Medicaid program will need $4.5 million at the present rate of expenditures and the general relief program $1 million.

In addition, he said, his staff is trying to administer the "battered child" law despite the fact the 1969 Legislature did not provide any money for it. If an abused child needs a foster home or other special care it is up to the Welfare Division to provide it.

Titanus giganteus, which lives along the Amazon, is the world's largest beetle. Five inches long, its powerful jaws can cut a pencil in two.

Both the male and female pigeon produce "pigeon milk" during the breeding season.

HAVE YOU SEEN ALL THE BATTERIES AT KELLETTS?

The double-decker flatbed pick-up truck.

Any way you look at the Volkswagen Pick-up, it isn't your run-of-the-mill pick-up.

For instance, you can load it from all 3 sides. The left side, right side, and back side fold down.

And with all 3 sides folded down at once, the VW Pick-up becomes the VW Flatbed.

But whether you use it as a flatbed or a pick-up, you have a completely flat deck 5 feet wide by 9 feet long strong enough to hold a ton.

Belowdecks there's a lockable weatherproof compartment the width of the truck that holds 20 cubic feet of anything you want to keep out of the weather.

There's something else belowdecks that's weatherproof. An engine that can't boil over or freeze up because it's air-cooled. And it's rear-mounted for better traction in sand, snow, mud, or wherever you do your hauling.

Whatever you're hauling, it'll be a smoother haul because we added a double-joint rear axle to the independent torsion bar suspension.

The VW Pick-up is the only pick-up that delivers VW economy. So there are two more things you'll spend less money on. Gas. (You get up to 23 miles to a gallon of regular.) Oil. (You take pints instead of quarts at oil changes.)

It's part of our plan to leave you with more money to put back into the business.

Or maybe into another VW truck.

Let's End Now the Cruel Sport (?) of Bullfighting

By DAVID POLING

If it weren't for the writings of Ernest Hemingway and the promotions of the Spanish government, bullfighting would have ended with the Inquisition. Since both activities employed pain and bloodletting (searching for the moment of truth), one must attack the promoters and shield the victims.

And this is just what Cleveland Amory has done in the October issue of Holiday magazine, under the theme, "Bullfighting Must Go." With the magazine editorial courage and Amory's powerhouse piece, you now believe that we just might see the end of this vicious, cruel sport.

Amory notes that the bullfighting fad is cooling off in Spain. For one thing, there are 312 bull rings in that country and the supply is not keeping up with demand. The animals being forced into the ring too often are tiny, skinny, frightened beasts—hardly the image of a raging "toro" that crunches into the grandstand, ripping up lumber, siding and padded horses.

The article in Holiday takes all the glamor, mystique and religiosity of bullfighting out of the "ole" foolishness and shows you the horror and sadism that passes for sport. What Jacqueline Onassis calls "a beautiful spectacle," and Hemingway, "a ballet of death," we have to identify as inhuman to man and beast, a corruption of life and living.

Amory has read a shelf full of books on bullfighting but it was from a journal by Captain Basil Hall (1824) that the Spanish strategy in Latin America was revealed. A resident of Chile told Hall the effects of animal cruelty on the populace:

"The Spaniards had systematically sought by these cruel shows and other similar means, to degrade the taste of their colonies and thereby more easily tyrannize the inhabitants. The people, first rendered utterly insensible to the feelings of others by constant familiarity with cruelty and injustice to animals, soon became indifferent to the wrongs of their country and lost, in the end, all motive to generous exertion in themselves."

The political and social dividends of bullfighting are exceeded only by the religious folkways in a sickening display of theological nonsense. Says Amory:

"Not only are bullfights held on feast days, but no small part of the nomenclature of bullfighting comes from religion. The bullfight begins, for example, with the band playing the Spanish quickstep march named for the patron saint of all bullfighting, La Virgin de la Macarena. The veronica pass, for another example, is named after St. Veronica, who wiped the face of our Lord. The explanation invariably given is that the saint is always represented holding the cloth by the two corners in the same manner the bullfighter holds the cape for the start of the veronica."

And, of course, we have all seen those hushed scenes in the movies where the young matador kneels before the altar, ready to emerge into the arena and prove his valor by slaughtering another beast and tossing his ears to a deserving fan. When you return from Spain, don't tell people about the bullfights: you will only be revealing a subhuman streak in your own soul. I'm praying that the bulls will be getting tourists with a conscience.

Big 747 To Tax Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 747, Boeing's biggest bird, makes its airline debut next year. But airport officials fear they cannot provide nests large enough to handle the luxury jetliner.

"They will produce instant traffic peaks on the ground, more passengers, more cargo, more visitors, more terminal public use and parking facility needs, more clogged access roads and no less aircraft noise," says one worried official.

The 747—capable of carrying between 300 and 500 passengers and twice the cargo of the now popular 707—will be first put into commercial service by Pan American World Airways.

Pan Am's chairman, Harold E. Gray, sees less of a problem.

"Any terminal that today can handle two 707 aircraft or DC8 aircraft within the same time span—say about 15 minutes— can equally well handle a 747," he said.

But Warren H. Hawes, director of economic services for Airport Operators Council International, Inc., the non-profit trade association of governmental bodies owning or operating major airports throughout the world, disagrees.

"The immediate problem is that the 747 will be in service before the airports are ready for it," he said.

"We are building, at the airports, as fast as we can, but there are many tremendous problems. The biggest problem of all is people—handling them, ticketing them, feeding them, getting them to and from the airport."

Pan Am paid a half-billion-dollars for 25 747s in 1966 and later increased the order to 33 planes, costing a total of $765 million.

Thus Pan Am had a large say in shaping of the 747. Its first planes will carry 58 persons in a forward first class compartment, and 304 in economy class. The jetliner will include a lounge on an upper deck, reached by spiral staircase from the main deck, and a bar.

The four-man flight crew is housed forward of the lounge, 29 feet above the ground. The plane's tail is taller than the average six-story building.

The 747 has 10 doors, six galleys and 12 lavatories, and will carry 14 stewardesses.

In preparation for the superjets, the airline industry is investing hundreds of millions of dollars in new computerized reservations systems and automated ticket facilities, and is working toward an automated baggage delivery system.

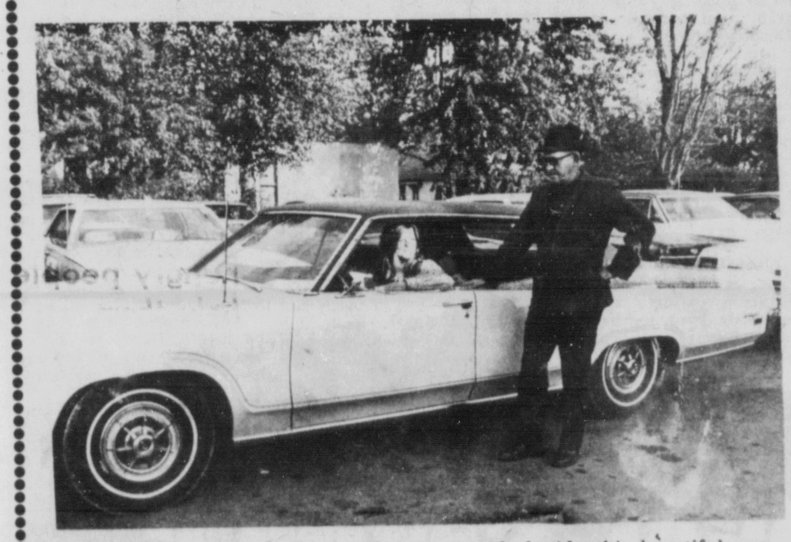
Other big buyers of the 747 include United Air Lines, with 18 of the $20 million airplanes on order, and Trans World Airlines, with 15 747s on order.

Altogether, 27 airlines have placed orders with Boeing for 183 planes.

The International Civil Aviation Organization, a United Nations agency, estimates 747s will be operating at 106 airports by the end of 1973, and at 47 of them by next year.

The International Air Transport Association has estimated that only 33 airports will be equipped to its recommended standards by the end of 1970, however.

What of the plane's safety? Former Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd said two years ago, "We cannot afford to lose a single one of these aircraft."



Junior Black, used car salesman, stands beside this beautiful, yellow Marquis and tells Julie Crader, November Calendar Girl, about the easy handling and many luxury items such as black vinyl top, power brakes and steering, radio, and other things. Come see for yourself.

New Interest Develops in 163-Year-Old Church Site

JACKSON, Mo. (AP) — All that remains of the Old Bethel Baptist church established in 1806 is a cemetery, a monument and a few stones that may have been part of the foundation of the church building.

What happened to the building — whether it burned, was razed or simply was abandoned and deteriorated—is not known.

The church functioned at its site south of Jackson until 1861 when the congregation moved to a house northwest of Jackson on Byrds Creek.

Descendants of the original founders still live in Cape County, many of them having taken prominent parts in community affairs through the years.

The old site is known as that of the first Protestant church west of the Mississippi River and is just south of Jackson. The congregation that was to build the church settled here some time before 1806 and on Oct. 11 that year voted to build a small log structure on the farm of Thomas Bull. The first church was too small and in 1812 it was replaced by a hewn log building 30 by 24 feet.

In addition to religious purposes the early building saw service for some civil affairs before Cape County was formed and a courthouse was erected.

At present, access to the area involves crossing private property and a road is needed. Once a road was established it would be possible a replica of the old church could be constructed and Otto A. Koenig has asked Cape County Court if the county has an old bridge which might be used to cross Goose Creek.

A lane an eighth of a mile long and a bridge over Goose Creek would permit entrance to the site. The court promised to visit the site with the highway engineer to see what might be done.

Koenig, librarian for Riverside Regional Library, James R. Nelson, principal of Jackson R-II High School, and Edwin W. Sander, county superintendent of schools, spearheaded the latest "discovery" of the old church site.

With an ax and sickle they found the old cemetery in the underbrush above Goose Creek east of the Jackson disposal plant. A Sunday School class from First Baptist Church became interested and cleared the brush. Recently a group of 24 persons from Cape Girardeau visited the site but as yet no organization has been formed to develop or preserve the area.

Twice before there has been interest in the site. In 1906 the Baptist Association of Missouri, meeting in Cape Girardeau, placed a granite monument commemorating the centennial year of the Baptists west of the Mississippi.

In 1943 an attempt was made to open access to the site but the effort had little lasting effect.

Kidnaped Boy Slain Before Ransom Bid

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The American businessman's son who was kidnaped and killed on a farm near Sao Paulo was already dead when his abductors demanded $12,500 ransom, Brazilian police say.

Authorities said Patrick Dolan, 18-year-old son of the vice president of Swift and Co. of Brazil, was kidnaped by two men while on his way to school last Thursday and was shot and buried on their farm a few miles west of the city.

Police kept the kidnaping secret in hopes of recovering the youth alive. But they found his body Wednesday and later announced the arrest of Jose Dias Rezende and his 25-year-old son, Jose Daniel Dias Rezende, an acquaintance of the victim. They were charged with the kidnap-slaying.

Officers said one or both of the kidnapers picked up Dolan in a car as he waited for a bus to take him to the American School, where he was a senior. After killing him, police said, the Rezendes contacted his father, Richard J. Dolan, and demanded the $12,500 ransom.

Dolan, following instructions in notes and telephone calls, left the money in his car at a Sao Paulo cemetery. The kidnapers did not pick it up and later instructed him to put it in a garbage can near the city airport.

Dolan complied, and the kidnapers apparently retrieved the money from the garbage can. They asked Monday for a second payment of $12,500, but did not say where to leave it and made no further contact with the family.

Police arrested the younger Rezende Tuesday night. They said he confessed, told them where they could find the body, and implicated his father. Officers arrested the father late Wednesday.

The youth's body probably will be flown to Kansas City, Mo., a consulate spokesman said. He said the family has relatives in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Color TV Approved for Moon Photos

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency successfully tested a color television camera Wednesday and said the Apollo 12 astronauts will take it with them to the moon.

The camera, which had interference troubles on earlier tests, was plugged into the lunar landing craft atop a Saturn 5 rocket and pictures of a color wheel, the Atlantic Ocean and other objects were transmitted to a receiver at Apollo Mission Control Center in Houston, Tex.

"The pictures were clear and beautiful," a NASA official commented.

After careful evaluation of the test, experts gave the go-ahead for Apollo 12 to carry the color TV camera.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean are to land on the moon's Ocean of Storms two weeks from now and will be able to beam the first live color television pictures from the bleak, cratered lunar surface.

If the camera had failed the test, the astronauts would have taken a black and white camera like that used by the Apollo 11 moonwalkers in July.

The 90 - year old business executive, who was generally credited as the builder of the modern day Sears, the world's largest merchandising firm, succumbed in his Lake Forest home.

Robinson Puts Idle Funds in Treasury Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — State Treasurer William E. Robinson invested $100 million of idle state funds Wednesday in U.S. Treasury bills drawing approximately 7.55 per cent interest.

Robinson said the money can be called on demand whenever the need arises to meet large state expenses.

For example, he said, the State Highway Department will need about $40 million this month to pay for completed contracts and about $28 million next month, depending on how the work proceeds.

The next big allocation of state school aid under the foundation program calls for an expenditure of $60 million to $65 million Dec. 15.

The money became available for investment when Robinson withdrew all idle funds from state banks Nov. 1 which were paying 5 per cent interest on 90-day deposits.

He said the new investment leaves about $38 million in the state's non-interest bearing account to meet day to day operating needs.

King Calls on Hearnes to Clean up Revenue Department

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) - Republican House Floor Leader R. J. King of Clayton last night criticized operation of the State Revenue Department.

He called on Governor Hearnes to "clean up the mess in the Revenue Department."

King also said Hearnes has put his will before the needs of the people. He accused the governor of "lowering himself to status of petty politician in trying to hold senators and representatives as pawns."

King spoke at a testimonial dinner in Sedalia.

Metal Sculpture Displayed

At the meeting of the Woman's Civic Club Tuesday at the Ramada Inn, it held a business session folllowed by metalcraft display by Tom Runnels, a sculptor from Marble Hill.

The club announced its Christmas Home Tour would be Dec. 14

Mrs. Lea Edwards, program chairman, introduced Runnels, who had with him original metalcraft displays. He told how he became interested in welding. The displays, all of which were his own thoughts about incidents seen and heard by the sculptor.

One of the displays were a team of horses plowing near a stump and scared by a rattlesnake. Another was a scene that occurred when his father was cutting cattle from a herd. A bull attacked the horse and threw his rider.

All the work is done by an intricate process, with the color black or copper.

The sculptures will be on display at the art show at the junior high school, Saturday and Sunday.

Herd of Fallow Deer Set Free In Swope Park

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A small herd of fallow deer has been released to roam through the zoo area of Swope Park and the sight of animals moving through the trees and across lawns has been enough to excite visitors.

"There's an elk loose down by the ape house," one park visitor informed a keeper last week, not knowing about the release of the deer.

"I doubt that. We don't have any elk," was the reply to the visitor.

Until last month the deer at the zoo had occupied a chain link fence enclosure.

"They have deer parks in England," reasoned Don Dietlein, zoo director. "Why not in Kansas City?"

So the deer were turned loose from their bare mud pen and now they browse on open lawns or retreat from time to time into brushy areas.

"That's the way you should see the animals," Dietlein argues. "See how you catch a glimpse now and then. This is the kind of naturalistic display we want.

"Fallow deer are right for this. They are known for their gentle dispositions."

And, he says, "It is all up to the public now to behave themselves so that we can have things like this for them to see."

Hope Retains Great Love For Roberta

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A girl named Roberta has an irresistible allure for Bob Hope, as he demonstrates once again with his monthly television special tonight.

"The Bob Hope Special" on NBC will be yet another rendition of the Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach operetta, "Roberta," which the comedian considers a good-luck talisman. And no wonder. That was the Broadway show which first brought Hope to national attention.

The late Messrs. Kern and Harbach might have trouble recognizing the version which Hope presents on TV tonight. The book will have numerous modern touches; only the songs will remain the same. And with tunes like "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Lovely to Look At," "Yesterday" (not the Beatle song and "You're Devastating," it's understandable why they're unchanged.

Bob Hope talked about his long association with "Roberta" one day after returning from Dallas, where he taped the show at the new Bob Hope Theater of Southern Methodist University. He first did the show on Broadway when the original version appeared in 1933-34. Two other newcomers were in the cast: George Murphy and Fred MacMurray.

"I got a lot of movie offers from the show, but I turned them all down," he recalled. "I was still nursing a grudge against Orangeville because they didn't like the test I did in 1930.

"I stayed with 'Roberta' until the summer, and then the producer wanted us all to work for scale (minimum salary) during the hot months. I had too many good offers to play movie houses on stage shows, so I cut out."

Hope did three more Broadway shows before succumbing to the Hollywood lure. He agreed to come west for Paramount to do "The Big Broadcast of 1936," in which he was given a song called "Thanks for the Memory."

In 1938, Hope returned to "Roberta," playing the operetta in the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera opposite Carole Landis. He bears a grim memory of that engagement: Just before the opening night curtain, the fire sprinkler system went off and soaked his entire wardrobe.

In 1958, Hope went back to the theater and played "Roberta" in St. Louis to mark the 40th anniversary of the Municipal Light Opera. The invitation came from his close friend, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. Hope performed the musical in one of his TV specials that fall.

Now it's "Roberta" revisited, with newcomers John Davidson and Michele Lee as co-stars.

"The show holds up just as good as ever," said Hope. "We played it straight through before the theater audience, with local camera crews shooting it from the rear of the theater. The audience was great, even when they were paying a thousand dollars a seat for charity.

Disarmament Hopes Seen In Soviet's Money Pinch

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The staff of President Nixon's National Security Council is not heavy with men who trust the Soviet Union. The Pentagon high echelons have made no secret of their suspicions of Moscow's intentions.

Yet there is considerable, though restrained, optimism in both these shops as Washington readies for disarmament talks Nov. 17 with the Kremlin's men.

No reappraisal has been made here of Soviet intentions. The belief is that Moscow, as in the past, will supply aid to Castro in Cuba, to Ho Chi Minh's successors in Hanoi, to Soviet-backed Communist groups within France, Red China, Latin America, Africa, the Middle East and wherever and that Brezhnev's men will foment underground insurgencies wherever practical.

The cautious hope, rather, lies in the latest of a series of unpublished reports now circulating in high official circles on the growing inability of the Russian government to foot its internal "bills."

It is becoming apparent (at least from the statistical estimates) that the Soviet Union must now:

- Cut back on consumer production to a level that would cause serious internal dissent, or
- Cut back on heavy space, military and related spending, or
- Go slow on building the industrial base that will determine how strong the Soviet Union will be 10 years or 20 years from now.

The figures indicate that the Soviet Union has recently robbed from its investment in future growth in order to meet its military and space build-ups.

For men who like to think in decades, this is not a good solution.

Therefore, the reasoning here is, that Brezhnev and his associates must find some way to cut costs in strategic defense and space now so that they will not in their arms build-up today destroy the industrial base and insure their military inferiority in the late 1970s and the 1980s.

(And secondly, the Russian plans do not call for fighting two major enemies on two fronts simultaneously. Regardless of how the Moscow-Peking talks turn out, the Kremlin will be wary of a Mao Tse-tung-run China with nuclear weapons. Moscow, the reasoning goes, must stabilize relations a little with the United States so long as the Chinese threat continues.)

With all this said, no official this reporter has talked to expects quickie negotiations. At best, they will be long, involved and tiresome, with haggling over every point. Even if the Russians were not inveterate hagglers, the complexity of nuclear-missile arms subject precludes any settlement within the near future.

If You Were the Judge

Beard Permitted For Probation Officer

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sheldon was a probation officer with a flair for the debonair. In addition to always being well groomed, he grew and maintained a well trimmed beard.

And, while there were those who appreciated the shrubbery on his chin, his superior officer depreciated it. In fact, he ordered Sheldon to shave it off on the grounds that a fuzz shouldn't wear fuzz. "I won't do it," insisted Sheldon. "I've grown accustomed to my face." The result? Sheldon was fired on the grounds of insubordination, to wit; for refusing to obey an order of a superior. Without ado, Sheldon attacked the reasonableness of the order in court and demanded the return of his job.

Sheldon's superior, however, held fast.

"When a relatively young person wears a beard," he explained to the judge, "he's identified with beatniks and that's the worse thing that can happen to a probation officer."

"On the contrary," was Sheldon's answer, "wearing a beard can also be a symbol of the Jehovah image, of a stern father. And, obviously, that's good."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order Sheldon reinstated to his job as demanded?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that a beard is a personal embellishment and an intelligent wearer of one no doubt regards it as an improvement to his appearance. While some people may flaunt a beard as a symbol of unruliness, noted the judge, there is no foundation for regarding a probation officer as being rebellious or eccentric merely because he too chooses to wear one. His tenure should be based upon his performance and not his beard.

Gen. Bradley Agrees With Nixon Policy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—America's only living five-star general, Omar N. Bradley, 66, said that he thoroughly agrees with the Vietnam policy outlined in President Nixon's Monday night speech.

"I can think of nothing more disastrous than an overt withdawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam," he declared.

General Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group in World War II and later Army chief of staff, came to nearby Independence to visit his old boss—former President Harry S. Truman—and to address the Military Order of World Wars at the Kansas City Club.

Bradley remains on the Army's active list as a five-star general, but noted his functions are largely advisory. Most of his time is taken by his post as chairman of the board of a watch company (Bulova).

"The thought of the retribution that could occur in Vietnam as the result of an immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces is staggering," said Bradley. "South Vietnam could be overwhelmed—there could be complete slaughter of those who had worked on the side of South Vietnam and this country's contribution there."

Although the general said he felt South Korea and the Philippines had made a significant contribution as allies to the U.S. effort in Vietnam, he felt others of our supposed allies had "let us down."

"I certainly don't understand the attitude of France, or other European nations, who only criticize U.S. presence in Vietnam.

Asked whether he thought the South Vietnamese eventually could take over their own war effort, Bradley replied:

"I don't know enough about the training of their troops to give an accurate answer. I have visited some of the training sites but I would have to leave the answer to someone who knows more about their progress."

What of Vietnam war moratoriums, that of Oct. 15 and the second scheduled for November?

"I think they can do nothing but to provide encouragement to the Communists, however well intentioned the demonstrators are. I realize their concern, but I don't think what they are doing will help."

Asked about his visit with Truman, Bradley said simply, "We discussed old times."

Did they discuss the Nixon Vietnam speech?

"No," he said with a smile, "we didn't talk about that."

The general's attractive and vivacious wife was asked about her visit with Mrs. Truman. Said Mrs. Bradley:

"Mostly, we just sat and smiled at each other."

After his speech and a formal news conference, the general consented to a private interview.

Who's your favorite general? Bradley was asked.

"If I were to pick one great general of modern times," he said, "it would have to be Gen. George C. Marshall, who gave us a year's head start in the realization that World War II would become a fact of life for this country. Military planning, which Marshall initiated long before Pearl Harbor, gave us this start."

ARMED FORCES

Second Lt. James R. Hulen, Sikeston, stationed with the 12th infantry, near the Cambodia border, has proof that cigarettes can be harmful to the body.

At least it proved fatal and injurious to two Viet Cong soldiers.

A clipping from a newspaper published in Vietnam and datelined Camp Radcliff, gives an account of a patrol in hostile territory.

Hulen, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hulen, 123 Second St., was patrolling in the Central Highlands, six miles west of An Khe, with Pfc. James Pulling, Ticonderoga, N.Y., when they spotted two Viet Cong soldiers searching the area.

"At first I didn't think they were armed, Pulling said, "but as they started to run for the bushes, I saw two bolt action weapons and opened with my M16."

"Assisted by Sgt. Kenneth Laviolette, Richmond, Ind., Private first class Pulling soon put a stop to the retreat by the VC, killing one and detaining the other. Curious to what the two had been looking for, Lieutenant Hulen and his men searched them.

"All we found," Hulen said, "were three packs of cigarettes and an assortment of the smaller packages that come in C-rations. They must have needed a smoke badly."

"After the detained VC had been taken to 1st brigade headquarters at Camp Radcliff, the platoon continued its mission a little more aware that cigarette smoking may be hazardous to one's health.

House Razed By Fire, Arson Case

WARDELL — Pemiscot County law officers are investigating another case of arson in the county, following a fire in Wardell Sunday night which destroyed a recently-vacated house.

The Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department said the fire was definitely arson, adding that a couple of cans of kerosene - like substance was found in he burning building. The house, owned by Clem Musgraves of Wardell, had been vacated only two days previous to the fire. No arrests have been made and an estimate of the house's value was not available.

Last week, Clyde's Lounge and Restaurant, located outside of Caruthersville, was damaged by arsonists, causing an estimated $60,000 to $65,000 worth of damages to the $135,000 building's interior. The restaurant, owned by Pemiscot County Sheriff Clyde Orton, was to have opened this week. Today, Pemiscot County officials, assisted by a team of investigators, continued studying the case. No arrests have been made, and no further clues have been obtained, the sheriff's department said.

AT&T Slates Long Distance Rate Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission said Wednesday the American Telphone & Telegraph Co. will reduce long distance elephone rates about $150 million a year.

The FCC said the proposed reductions are being submitted by the company shortly in connection with a comprehensive review recently completed by the FCC of the Bell System's operations and earnings requirements.

The new rate reductions for interstate telephone calls is in addition to reductions of about $87 million which AT&T previously agreed to file.

The $87 million represents an offset to increases in revenue resulting from higher rates recently filed for program transmission, Telpak and teletypewriter exchange services.

The FCC said it anticipates that the new rates will permit the Bell System companies to achieve earnings in the range needed to attract capital under current conditions.

The FCC said the proposed reductions take into account increases in AT&T's cost of capital but recognize that the growth in interstate communications traffic is continuing unabated and that the average revenue per message has shown a steady increase.

Housewife Asks 10,000 Signers To Back Nixon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A young St. Louis county housewife who "didn't even vote for Nixon" has mustered a campaign to collect 10,000 signatures to show support for the President's Vietnam policies.

Mrs. Arlen F. Leber of suburban Creve Coeur said today hundreds of petitions have been mailed out in Missouri and Illinois asserting the signers represent "the vast, often silent majority of Americans."

Mrs. Leber said she is in favor of peaceful dissent such as the recent moratorium day but says she feels the enemy in Vietnam may not understand the political system and misjudge the true situation in the United States.

"We all want peace, but it's just not that simple to leave Vietnam. There are a lot of entanglements most of us don't even know about," she said.

Mrs. Leber has about 10 other housewives helping and intends to mail the signatures to President Nixon. She said another reason for the campaign was she feels "the morale is so bad" among American soldiers in Vietnam.

"They're going on the battlefield and being shot at and are thinking 'what's it all worth" she said.

Victim of Stabbing Will Not Prosecute

WARDELL — A 56- year - old Negro man- who told Hayti hospital officials he was stabbed by his girlfriend- informed the Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department he did not wish to prosecute the woman.

Hooper Taylor, radio dispatcher for the sheriff's department, said they were notified of the stabbing Sunday at 7:30 p.m. by the Pemiscot Memorial Hospital, who said Joseph Smith of Wardell had been admitted and treated for minor stab wounds.

Hospital officials quoted Smith as saying he had been stabbed by Annie Lee McIntire, 45, of Hayti. Smith was released today from the hospital, and the sheriff's department said the case was being dropped.
